

If you are seeing this video, it means one of two things has happened. Either,

1. My lawyers negotiated with Emily Artful's lawyers, and we reached a private settlement which resulted in some retraction.

Or

2. I took Emily to court for defamation and came out the other side.

This video is being made for posterity, to show that I didn't do what I was accused of, and to show that what Emily has accused me and my husband not only never happened, but could not have happened. This video is being made to simply defend my, and my husband's name, and prove that we did not do the things we were accused of.

I am going to go through Emily's statements point by point, with evidence showing how she has lied on screen, and I am going to leave links in the description box down below to everything I am talking about, that way you can verify their authenticity. The only things I will not link to will be Emily's facebook accounts, of which there are three, where she goes by different names, because they are still active.

99% of the evidence shown in this video is going to be from Emily's accounts, including posts from her Emily Artful youtube, twitter and instagram. All of these are publicly accessible, all of these were found after she made these false claims, and all of these accounts link back directly to Emily, and no one else. These accounts affirm parts of her story, but completely debunk and disprove others. I will show them in their entirety, so you can draw your own conclusions. I will also include archival links, seeing as Emily herself stated she has deleted evidence involving this.

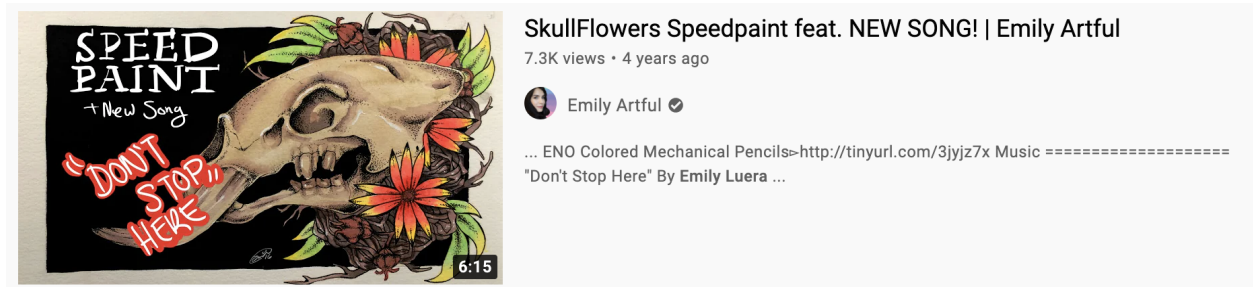

Emily's narrative that I stalked her is in part made, I believe, so that when I show the proof of her lies from her accounts, she can further claim that that in and of itself is stalking. Emily created a false narrative so that no matter what is said after, even if I debunk all her claims, she can still claim she is the victim. That is why I made the decision to handle this legally, before ever responding back publicly. Any person claiming to be me before this was not. I only once spoke to Tipster on Instagram, who I will address at the end.

While Emily states she has deleted all of the evidence, and that she was told by the police, a private eye and a lawyer that if she pursued this legally, she'd get nowhere, that is clearly untrue. I have plenty of evidence that shows what she said never actually happened, all of which was found after she made her first video, and the majority of it is from her own accounts. Meaning she both had access to proof that actively went against her claims, and purposely hid it in order to slander my husband and I.

In response to being asked for any proof, she stated that she “wouldn’t lie about this because it would put her career and reputation on the line”, and that my estranged relative and a former friend who physically abused me would also not lie about this, because it would hurt their public image. I will address them at the end as well.

I will be using Emily’s full name sporadically through this video, seeing as Emily herself places it in the description box of some of her videos, and it’s publicly known.

I will also be discrediting the allegations set against me by the two people who came forward to corroborate this story with no evidence, that being my sibling, Jem Campbell, who sent me multiple emails shortly after describing how I should kill myself and my husband, and Kevin Adam Coulter, a former friend who physically assaulted me, as well as their many ex girlfriends. I will show proof of that as well.

This video is going to be heavily itemized, so feel free to skip to whatever chapter of this video you are interested in. or if you would prefer to read what I am about to say, a google doc with all of the screenshots will also be accessible in the description. However, the document is 91 pages long as of when I am writing this.

Part 1 The relationship.

Before I go further, I want to quickly take the time to point out how Emily talked about her relationship with Anthony on her YouTube channel, prior to making this video. In her “my ex girlfriend destroyed my art video” Emily talks about how she has only had two bad relationships her entire life, that being with a mutual friend named Sean, who she stated cheated on her, and the 13 year old she dated when she was 17. She goes on to say all her other relationships were lovely.

This video post dates her dating Anthony by 5 years, which makes me skeptical of her claims that the relationship was ended with physical threats and she was scared of him. This video also post dates her relationship with the ex from her I dated a sociopath video, where she said that relationship was the worst she had ever been in, that he scarred her as a lover, a friend and a person, and that she had never gone through anything as bad as that.

Why that was left out of the Ex Girlfriend video, why that ex was not included as a bad relationship, and why Anthony wasn't mentioned as being as traumatizing as she has now stated. I do not know. But we will talk more about this, and her other claims against her exes later.

Emily and Anthony dated for 3 to 4 months in 2011. Emily was 19, Anthony was 18. Her twitter from that time affirms that.

During the short relationship, Emily ended up moving into Anthony's grandfather's home. This was corroborated by Anthony's grandfather. This can also be corroborated by a blog post Emily would make in 2013, 2 years later, talking about how she has a history of moving in with her long term boyfriends.

Emily was not abusing drugs as she stated, and this is known because Anthony himself has a history of past drug abuse from before he met Emily and has a zero tolerance policy for that in his life. Anthony has been sober for over 10 years. We can call upwards of 20 people who have all had the same experience with Anthony, because he is exceedingly cautious with drug use. Some of these people are also mutual friends with Emily.

Emily is well aware of this, and was not using any drugs while dating Anthony. According to various social media accounts Emily ran from ages 13-20, Emily didn't do drugs, and in fact was very against drug use. She was not addicted to cocaine at 14, like she said, and never abused drugs until after Anthony and her dated.

A truly inspirational singer and songwriter has died today. Though I do not condone any of the things Any Winehouse did to her body through out the years, all the toxins she put inside of her, I do undyingly honor her unforgettable talent and how her sound has raised me as a musician. Truly one of the strongest influences in my career, I love you Any Winehouse and I hope your soul rests in peace.

This is a post she made after Anthony and her had broken up where she states whole heartedly she is against drug use.

If she was abusing drugs at this time, Anthony, his grandfather or his grandfather's girlfriend would have seen any indication of this. There is a history of other family members abusing drugs and they are very aware of what that looks like, and wouldn't have allowed it in their home.

Emily framing us as two people attacking her over past drug use makes no sense, given Anthony's history, and the fact that more than half of my extended family has their own issues with drug use, and my parents met in AA.

However, when they were dating, she was dealing with intense mental health issues, of which she told Anthony. She has posted on social media before, during and after dating Anthony about her mental health, saying she was bipolar, had bpd, was schizophrenic, had OCD, suffered from short term memory loss, had an apparent brain injury and more.

In a post in the awkward years project from 2015, she also stated that she had to take a medication since before puberty, which I am unsure what it was.

Now: 22 years old, Model, residing in Bay Area, California

As for my personal (I guess you'd call it a "success") story, when I was around 17/18, I got off a medication that I had taken since before puberty. Turns out, my natural frame is pretty small. I lost 65 lbs incredibly quickly (but kept my big boobs! yes!), grew out my hair, started coming into a toned-down version of my own style and bam! All of a sudden I became attractive. By this time I was out of high school and no one really got to see my progress, but I didn't care. I felt beautiful on the outside and took my newfound confidence everywhere. From that, I started doing modeling part time and it eventually became a full time gig. I turn heads and get hit on everywhere I go and I STILL think people are just trying to make fun of me!

Trust me, when you get out of your awkward phase, you will not be used to people hitting on you for a looonngg time. Just take it in stride, you'll get used to it.

I went from being 5'1, 155 lbs with a D cup that looked like an A cup stacked up against my bloated stomach, a bowl haircut, severe acne, and fuzzy eyebrows to 5'2 100 lbs with a D cup that actually looks like a D cup, long flowing hair and a face that probably never needs makeup again.

And who knows, I'm sure to someone somewhere I might look ugly, but I feel fantastic and all I can say to them is, "People pay me because I'm beautiful to look at but people stay with me because they know even after the beauty fades, my heart will stay beautiful."

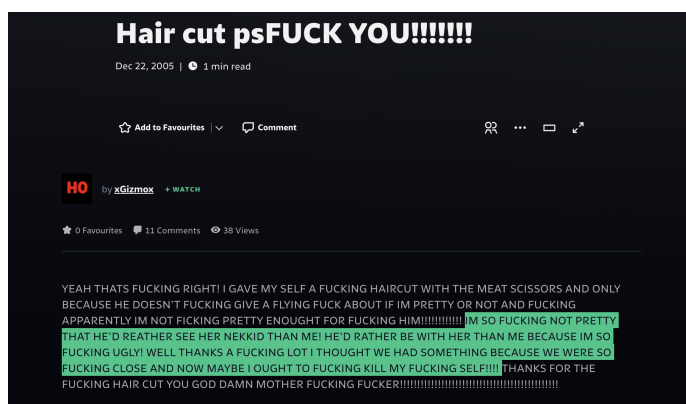

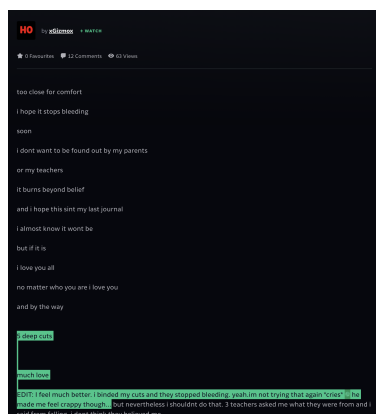

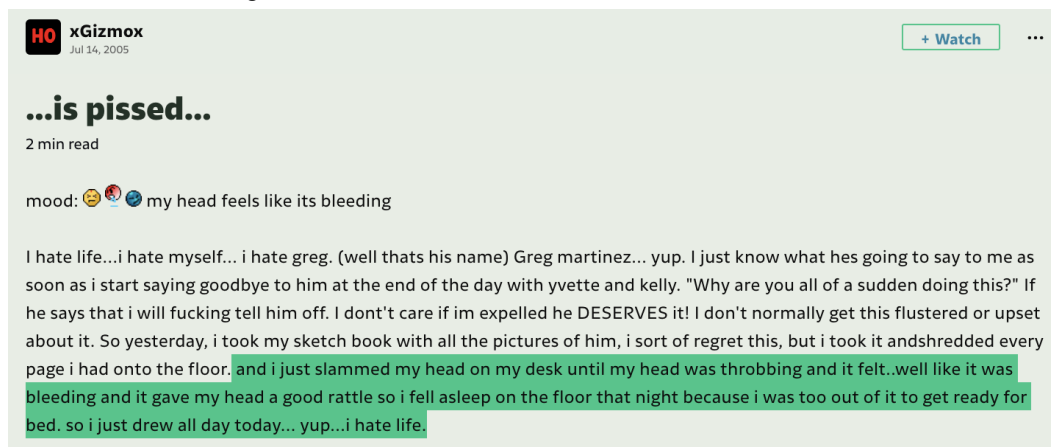

And to all who inquire (because I know someone will), no. I never have had any work done on anything, at all.

During this time when she was living with Anthony, Emily's behavior would cause Anthony and his grandfather to hide the knives in their home for their own safety, she would throw tantrums calling Anthony and his friends slurs, which was not uncommon for her according to her own post history on deviantart, (faggy daggy https://archive.ph/zMkTe) and her behavior would come across as erratic and dangerous, not just to Anthony, but to everyone present. We've contacted multiple eye witnesses. Emily also stated herself that she used to behave this way, documenting these outbursts online since middle school, where she would continuously hurt herself and talk about hurting others.

Emily and Anthony dated for a couple months, and during that time, Anthony ended up getting a job at the movie theater I was working at, Cinelux Plaza Theaters in Campbell California. Anthony and I met briefly before his interview, however, we didn't work together until the beginning of summer in 2011, after Emily and Anthony had broken up. I never spoke to Emily, we never waved back and forth at each other, she is confusing me with someone else.

There was only one time when technically I saw her in person, but it was from a distance, when she had passed out in the parking lot behind the movie theater after getting into an argument with Anthony. This is the incident Emily is misremembering as happening after they had broken up, however, at the time they were very much together. There are multiple witnesses to this occurrence.

There were other moments during their relationship where Emily publicly threatened Anthony, sexually harassed other women, and we have contacted the people who were present.

The relationship was short lived, with them breaking up after a couple of months, however during the relationship Emily took it upon herself to get a tattoo of Anthony and herself as chinchillas on her arm with the Finnish word for love under it. She posted a picture of the tattoo on her twitter page, @annabellewanted, <https://twitter.com/AnnabelleWanted/status/64494377430560768> <https://archive.ph/T16Yo> ,

The photo is a bit blurry, mostly due to the camera at the time, but she purposely gave the male chinchilla little emo bangs, which Anthony had. She only owned one chinchilla at the time, named Archimedes and did not own a girl chinchilla, though later she would get one and claim the tattoo is for that. She would say that the chinchilla was “their kid”. She continued this action with other of her boyfriends after Anthony as well, as seen here.

And here's her doing so in 2015, while living with her boyfriend "bob". This post is still live on her instagram.

Shortly after she got this tattoo, their relationship ended.

Anthony broke up with Emily. The reason they broke up was because of her erratic behavior.

Emily also lied when she said how the breakup occurred, saying that Anthony's friend, who she calls Brandon, who's real name Bryce, told her she was a worthless whore who he was going to curb stomp and kill. This never happened. Instead, Anthony broke up with Emily himself twice. However, Emily wouldn't listen to him, and kept coming to his home, kept showing up at his friend Bryce's house, and would try to go places he was going to be, including his work and had to be escorted out.

Ironically, she wouldn't take no for an answer.

Only because she wouldn't take no for an answer, did Anthony ask Bryce to tell her to leave him alone, and to confirm to her that he wanted the relationship to end. Bryce at no point threatened her. In fact, they remained Facebook friends during that time even when Anthony and her weren't speaking. Zprofilms is a brand account run by Bryce which she heavily interacted with, and still follows on her currently active facebook. The dates on these posts are important as this occurred when Anthony and Emily were not speaking.

Q and A video! Questions by Emily Luera, Jessica Hawks, Shannon Campbell, Josh Pohle, Linkette Joan Hyrule, Brice Mcvay, Karina Kathryn Samantha Howard, Michelle Baker. Enjoy the wisdom!

Bryce had no personal issues with her until she tried to slander him in this video.

In going over Emily's statements, I found that Emily brought up on twitter after the fact that she was "close" to Anthony's step grandma had bonded with her during the relationship.

This is completely untrue, and his step grandma has never met Emily, seeing as his grandfather was dating another woman while Emily and Anthony were together. It's impossible for this to have happened. Anthony's step grandma also didn't use Facebook until very recently, seeing as she was a sitting judge at the time, and it would open her up to threats and harassing communication.

Emily has never been close to any member of his family. Emily and them were not friendly, and Anthony's family did not and do not like Emily. They encouraged Anthony to break up with her, and they stand behind us 100%.

Emily also stated that she sent her a Facebook message, allegedly saying that she believed Anthony was harassing her at one point. We reached out to confirm this and she said no such message was ever received. It also should be noted that Emily was well aware that Anthony had separated with that side of the family, and they were not speaking. Emily took it upon herself to send them what she thought was personal private information of his in order to hurt him.

Part 2 2012 (Heroin)

After Emily and Anthony broke up, Emily dated a couple of other people, people who both Anthony and I know. There are specifically 2 people who she dated between when she and Anthony broke up, stopped talking, and then reconnected with after she got sober, that I am going to be talking about now.

Despite her saying that she is friends with all her exes except Anthony, we have proof of her accusing a plethora of her past partners and in some cases, their current partners, of abuse as well, some of which can be found on her youtube channel, as recently as last year.

The first person would be Sean.

Dealing with that deadbeat loser sucked, but in the end it was worth it for my muse I know and love today ❤️ you Sean

Emily made a storytime video about him that is still live on her channel, claiming he cheated on her with a crazy bitch who ended up sending her a fake cease and desist because she was so insecure about Emily. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8sLXTe2AG6Q>)

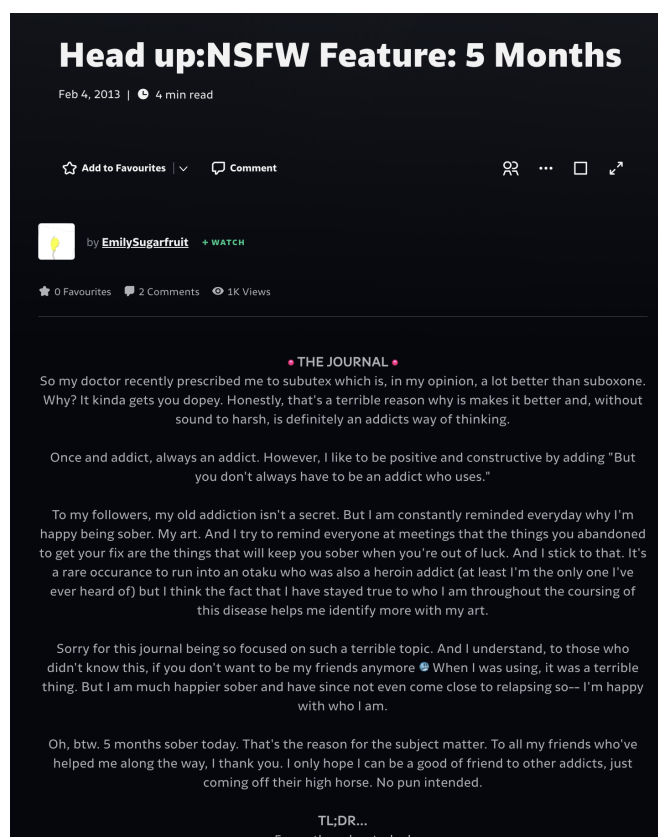

The other is a guy we will call Carl, who she made a story time about how his ex girlfriend was, again, so crazy, she faked a suicide attempt and said she was going to accuse him of rape, who he ended up getting back together with and marrying. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7FrEzxo4uJ0>)

Both of these stories are untrue, and are oddly in line with things Emily has stated she has done to her own boyfriends via her social media.

Carl allegedly got her into heroin, according to Emily. However, much like with Anthony, this relationship did not last long, with them breaking up in August. Shortly after that, her relationship with heroin also ended.

According to her deviant art page by February 4, 2013, she was already 5 months sober from Heroin. Meaning she got clean from heroin NOVEMBER 2012.

(<https://www.deviantart.com/emilysugarfruit/journal/Head-up-NSFW-Feature-5-Months-352491540> / <https://archive.is/a4BCb>)

Emily has confirmed November 2012 as her sobriety date, specifically from heroin, multiple times on her youtube channel, instagram, twitter and more. All of the posts I am citing about her sobriety date being in 2012 are from after 2015, which is when she is now claiming she actually got sober from heroin.

In her deleted, "I dated a sociopath" video, uploaded in 2016, she describes how she dated a person with a history of past drug use who was abusive towards her, and that she was about 3 years sober from heroin.

(Dated A Sociopath | Storytime / <https://archive.ph/084Rh>)

This is another video in which she accuses a past ex of abusing her. Making this the 8th person she has accused of abuse that I have brought up in this video.

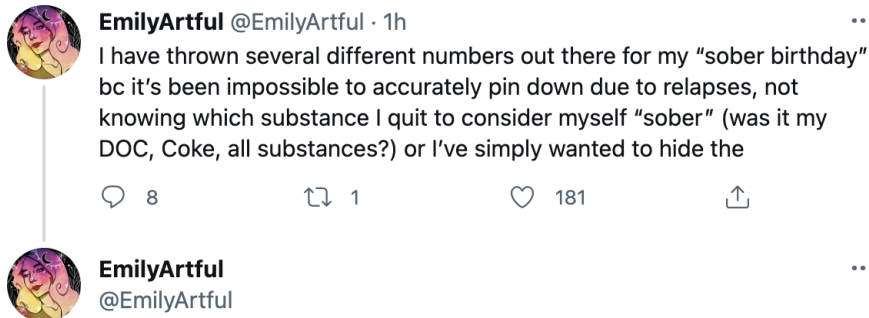

So in 2016, when this video was initially released, Emily was stating that she was sober from specifically from heroin as early as 2012, which lines up with this blog that I am showcasing right now.

She also has a post on instagram that is still live, stating, once again, she got sober in 2012, more specifically, November of 2012. The post, which includes her singing an original song, called it's not good for you, is captioned "When you write a song to reminds yourself to keep going. #singing, #itsnotgoodforyou #sober #cleanliving #itworksifyouworkit #sounds #emilyartful" I will play the clip she posted now, specifically because she states 3 years in November, that being her sobriety date.

https://www.instagram.com/p/BKPIItNAfHS/?utm_medium=copy_link /<https://archive.ph/9Hr32>

All of her posts from 2012 to before her video on my husband and I came out, state that she became sober from heroin in 2012. However, in her video against my husband and myself, Emily states she only really got sober in 2015. However, if she was really using up until the year before making all of these posts, and writing this song, why would she not be honest and state that. Why parade around an untrue sobriety date for the past 5 years, especially when no one was specifically asking?

Replying to @EmilyArtful

Oh jeez, I should probably add that I'm about 6 years sober from hard substances. I actually called my old program director to get my drug test information. They tested me every 2 weeks on the regular so they had the most accurate date.

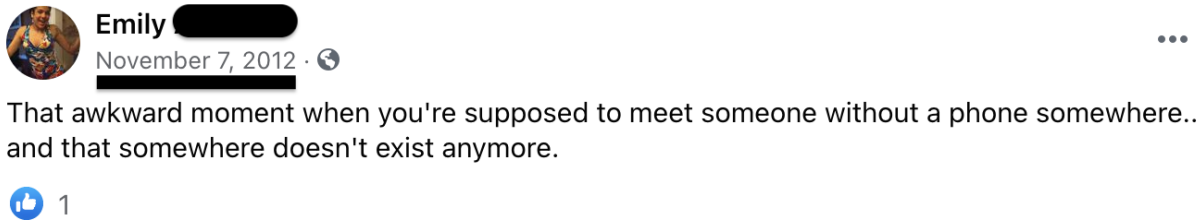

9:15 PM · Aug 4, 2021 · Twitter for iPhone

In response to people questioning her, she post these tweets, stating she has documents proving she was using until 2015. She has never posted proof that this is the case. Since her program director has the evidence, she would have put that forward. I personally believe she is changing the date in order to accuse my husband of an assault that could not have happened for multiple reasons, not least of which is that we can prove she wasn't using heroin when they were in contact.

Emily only used heroin between May 2012 to October 2012. 6 months in total.

During this time she was not talking to Anthony. However, Anthony and her did reconnect the month she got sober. They tried to meet up to talk about collaborating on music, and on November 7th, 2012, Emily posted this,

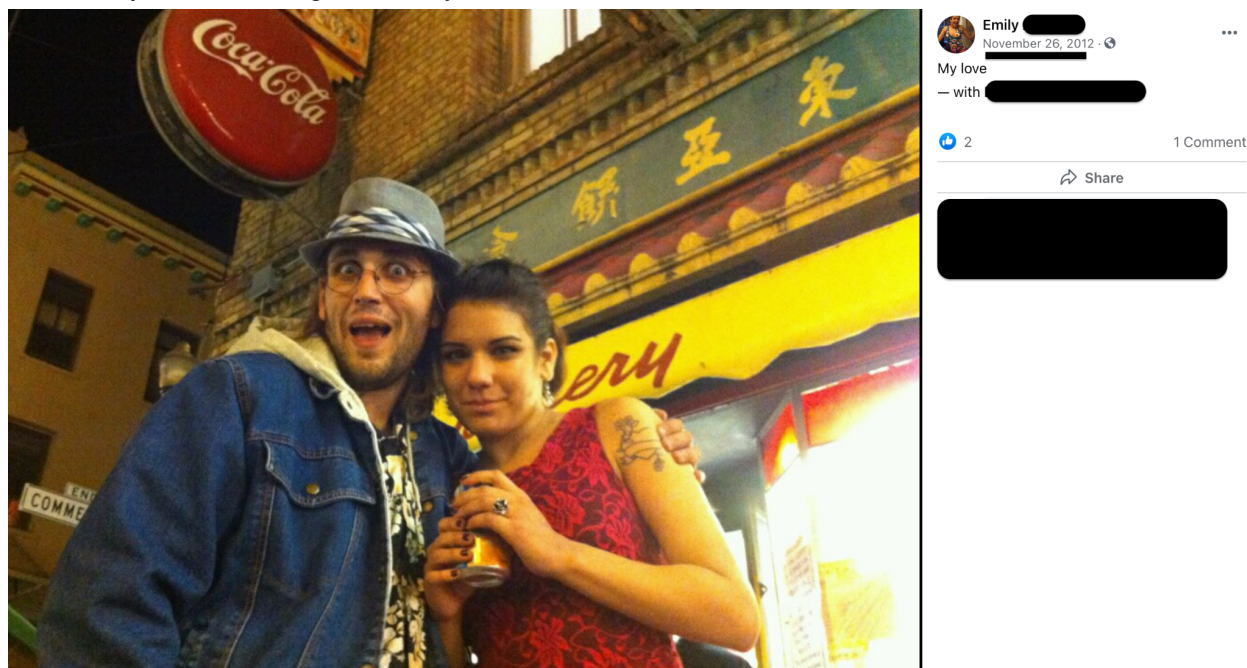

"that awkward moment when you're supposed to meet someone without a phone somewhere, and that somewhere doesn't exist anymore."

That somewhere she is talking about is Johnny Rockets, the one that used to be in the Westgate mall in Saratoga. And that someone is Anthony. This would have been the first time they were meeting up after the break up and her getting clean. They didn't end up meeting up on this day, as seen in the post as well as this facebook interaction between Emily and Anthony (from his now defunct account) where she states she misses him and they make plans to see each other that week. This post was from November 28th. Meaning they didn't meet up until December.

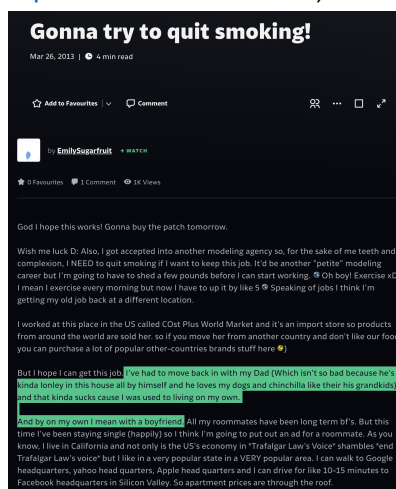

Emily was also dating another person during this time, as seen in this facebook post from November 26, 2012, 2 days before talking to Anthony.

When Emily was actively using, prior to november, according to the same blog, she was living with her ex boyfriend, not at her fathers home. She only moved back into her father's home sometime after March, about 6 months after getting sober, according to another one of her blog posts saying as much.

(<https://www.deviantart.com/emilysugarfruit/journal/Gonna-try-to-quit-smoking-361663521/> / <https://archive.is/OWWah>)

That means Anthony could not have snuck in through her bedroom window in her father's home to assault her while she was high, the way she stated, seeing as she was never high in that house, and didn't move back in until 6 months into her sobriety, and she kept that sobriety date of November 2012 up until she made her video slandering my husband and I.

To summarize: Emily was actively using heroin while living with an ex. She got clean in November, started dating another person, and Anthony and her reconnected as friends. They tried to meet up publicly on November 7th, but that fell through, and they made plans on November 28th to see each other in December. Around 6 months later, she moved back into her fathers home, where she remained sober, according to her statements made from that time until 2021.

If Anthony had come over to her father's house at any time after that, she would have been at least 6 months sober off of heroin. She also changed her story to state she invited him over at some point, looking to hook up, but she was too high to consent. This still could not have happened.

Her statement, about how Anthony took advantage of her, is a lie. It's also not the first time she has appeared to lie about an ex or romantic interest abusing her. Again, we have upwards of 8 people being accused that I have shown so far in the videos I have already cited.

This is not a he said she said, her own statements from the past 10 years go against what she claims. And she purposely withheld them from her video in order to slander us.

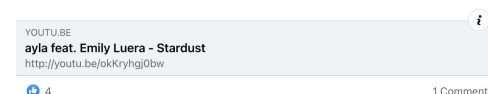

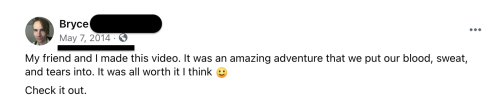

Part 3 Online Harassment

One of the main things that Emily states in her video is that online harassment was never leveled at her until after she started working with Anthony professionally. She doesn't directly give a date, but does say that it started around the time they worked on his song Star Dust together, which would be in 2014, two years after they reconnected.

She supposes that this is because Anthony was going to put me in that song, and she told him I was a bad singer and he took me out and put her in my place.

This is categorically false.

Emily worked on multiple songs with Anthony, and they worked together from 2013-2014. The song she is referencing didn't come out until 2014, and was the last song they worked on together.

They had worked on another song, Autumn's Moment together, in 2013. She was not in the music video for Autumn's moment because of the online harassment she was already receiving for posting content under the name Emily Sugarfruit. Harassment that Anthony defended her against. We will come back around to this in a moment.

When Star Dust came out, I was not in contact with Anthony because I was actively dating another person. I have also never been asked to sing on any of his music. Because I do not sing.

The person on the original version of stardust that she heard was not me, it was a person named Lenaya. Anthony had taken some music courses in college with her, and asked her to be on the song because he liked her voice.

She also was not taken off of the song because Emily said she couldn't sing, or because she faced harassment. Rather Lenaya's boyfriend wasn't comfortable with her being on the song with another man, so Anthony respectfully took her out. Anthony then asked Emily to be on the song. She was simply the second choice.

Her claiming this is the first time she noticed harassment is also false, because Emily herself has written multiple blog posts, status' and more about how she, before she even met Anthony, was being stalked and harassed. Going as far back as when she was in middle school, posting on deviant art art under the names Gothic Kazooie, xGizmox and clash city rockers, she would post about how she is being harassed by a group of people, some who even went so far as to hack her account and send hate to her friends.

She also did this before Anthony and her and started working professionally together after she got sober in 2012. On her Facebook, Emily wrote this post on December 9, 2012, stating this.

Emily [redacted]

December 9, 2012 · [redacted]

So I'm finally writing something about the girl who pretty much tormented me all through hs and even after. An underclassmen at that.

She is a compulsive liar and ruined a lot of my relationships. She liked to flirt with my bfs behind me back, and was commonly known for telling them lies lie I was addicted to meth, I had STDs or I had the HIV virus, I cheated on them, I was a psycho stalker who was trying to get pregnant so they'd never leave ...etc.

So who is ready to read a little column of me being muthafckin real?

This means the harassment she claims to be the victim of started in high school, at least 3 years before Anthony knew her.

I don't know if any of this actually happened, but it's incredibly strange that she has had multiple instances of this happening in her life, all while no evidence of said stalking actually existing.

Of note is the fact that Bryce is one of the two people who commented on this post, and he said, letting it go is about the best thing you can do. Which goes directly against the crazy, evil caricature she framed him as.

Part 4 Emily Sugarfruit

Emily did start to receive harassment in 2013 when she was 21, however, this is because of her time in the youtube anime community as Emily Sugarfruit. For some reason she confused her posting on this channel as her doing cam work, even though those are two things that she did at separate times, almost a year apart.

She absolutely did do cam work, a year after she quit youtube, between June 2014 and July 2014, according to her camming twitter account. She didn't do it because she was forced to do it by another abusive ex, though, as she is still friends with the man she lived with while she was doing cam work. More on this in part 5. The only ones that have been deleted are her 3 YouTube pages, Sugarfruit, Emily Sugarfruit, and Sugarfruit vlogs. The Sugarfruit one was her main channel and her url was youtube.com/emilyluera.

This is important to note, because she would go on to say this channel would lead to her being stalked and attacked online for years, like in this post from 9gag (<https://9gag.com/u/rantingandravyn/posts/> / <https://archive.ph/2mHYe>)

According to Emily's story, she was uploading to this channel while she was living with her abusive ex, being forced to do cam work and then she was fired because of Anthony and I. She stated that her getting that job was her only way out of the abusive home she was in, and when she was fired, she was made homeless.

Almost every portion of that story is untrue, based on her social media from that same time.

Please keep in mind these receipts prove part of her story, however, Emily opted not to show the receipts because all of them go against Anthony and I being involved in any capacity, and would lead people to finding proof we couldn't have done this.

According to her instagram, as well as the previously mentioned deviant art journal, 6 months after getting sober, she was living with her dad in a very loving home, where he would buy her art supplies and let her do whatever she wanted. She stated herself he would let her stay there as long as she needed to, rent free.

I worked at this place in the US called COst Plus World Market and it's an import store so products from around the world are sold her. so if you move her from another country and don't like our food you can purchase a lot of popular other-countries brands stuff here 😊

But I hope I can get this job. I've had to move back in with my Dad (Which isn't so bad because he's kinda lonley in this house all by himself and he loves my dogs and chinchilla like their his grandkids) and that kinda sucks cause I was used to living on my own.

And by on my own I mean with a boyfriend. All my roommates have been long term bf's. But this time I've been staying single (happily) so I think I'm going to put out an ad for a roommate. As you know, I live in California and not only is the US's economy in "Trafalgar Law's Voice" shambles end Trafalgar Law's voice but I like in a very popular state in a VERY popular area. I can walk to Google headquarters, yahoo head quarters, Apple head quarters and I can drive for like 10-15 minutes to Facebook headquarters in Silicon Valley. So apartment prices are through the roof.

(Try 1200 USD for a "decent" studio apartment ://) So I definitely need a roommate, I couldn't get by on my own, which sucks so bad. The best scenerio would be a 1 bedroom apartment with a roommate which sucks ____- I mean, I'd pray to the good lord I'd be the one making more so I'd be paying a bigger share (thus getting the bedroom) but I would still like... not want someone bunking in the room where everyone walks in,ya know? :S

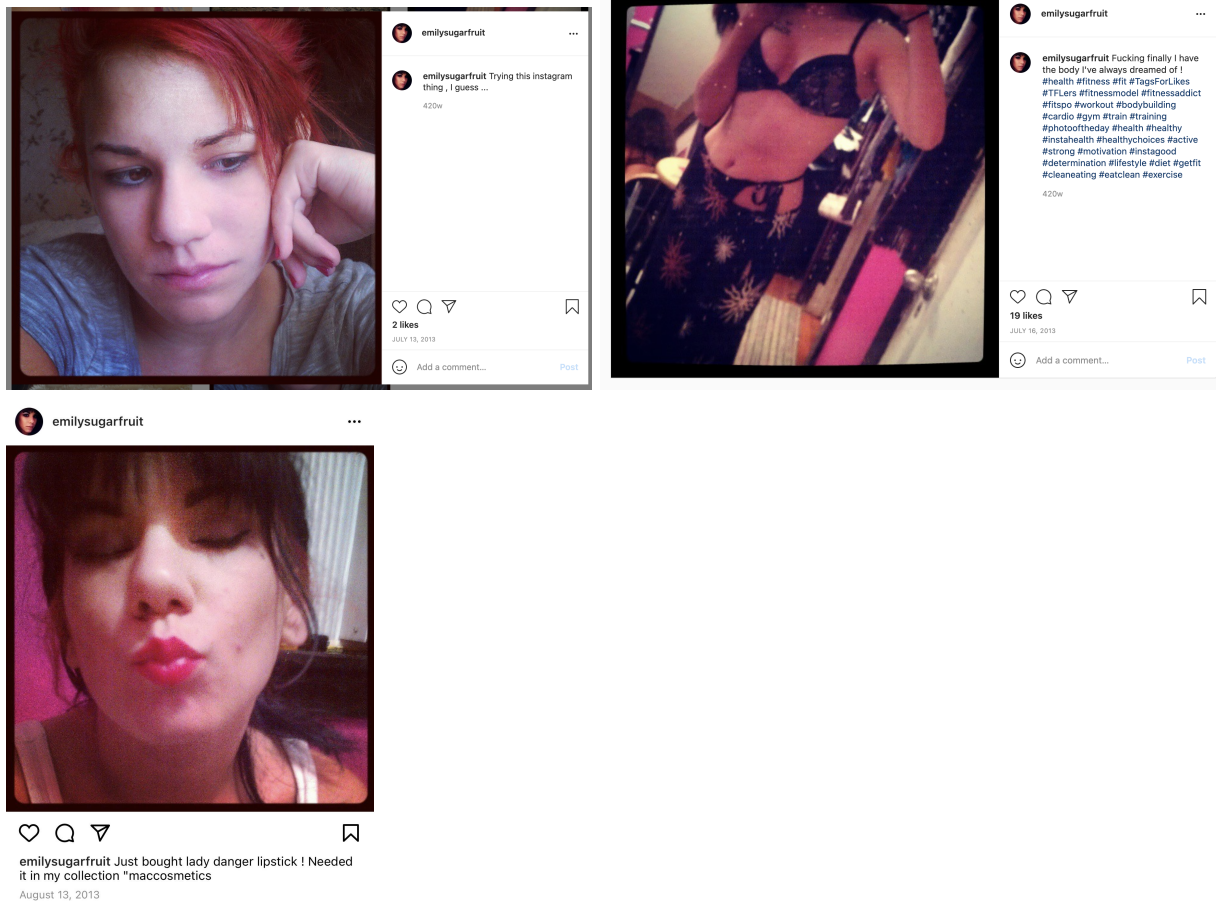

But for now I'm with my Dad and he's really chill with letting me stay here as long as I need to, which is awesome. Not to mention he likes One Piece and loves reading my comics and stuff so he's been a huge help with the process of the manga so far. And not to mention he's supplied me with food and just the other day he bought me a few prismacolor markers that he knew I needed (right colors and everything, no repeats) and I nearly died, it was so nice.

But my mother is coming up from Southern California (like 6 hours down south of me, by disneyland) and she's super girly and a spendaholic and told me she's taking me shopping (which, despite my demeanor, I LOVE going shopping) which is really really awesome. The rare times I get spoiled I take advantage of the opportunity xD Hell, wouldn't you?

If she was abused and forced to do cam work in 2013, when she was fired, this would be the man doing it, not an abusive ex. It should also be noted that her relationship with her father is great, according to the video she made where she talks about him driving her and all of her things to Omaha, Nebraska to move in with her new husband in 2016. (What's been on my mind recently...)

We can tell she does move back in from her instagram, because her room in her father's home has bright pink walls, and the rest of the house has a kind of muted wallpaper.

In July, she started dating someone, who appeared on her instagram in a photo with her dogs.

(<https://www.instagram.com/p/cTXCfAxW0H/>)

<https://archive.is/4AvNf>

We will call him Bob.

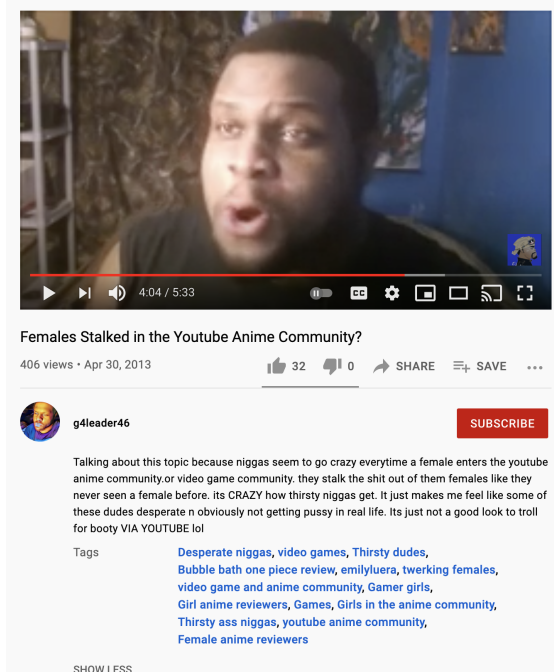

This would have to be the man who forced her into cam work, because when she actually started to do camming, this was who she was living with at the time, along with his mother. However, that story is also untrue.

On the Sugarfruit channel, Emily ended up doing a couple of controversial things, like posting an anime review, naked in a bathtub. Emily states now in 2021 that she was high on heroin, but as established, that cannot be true.

The video of her in the bathtub caused a lot of anger in the anime community because the YouTube anime community was filled with mostly men, who saw Emily doing that as a cheap way to get subscribers and attention.

I was able find this video from April 2013 that confirms what happened. This video has her full legal name in the tags, as well notes that she did in fact do a nude review, and also notes how members of the community were behaving inappropriately at the time, confirming the harassment she was receiving and why she was receiving it.

(<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MeiEOrlmuul> / <https://archive.is/CP5Tp>)

She made mention of this herself on her Emily Artful Channel, and spoke about how this channel led to harassment.

(<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EHdlu4V0dQ4> / <https://archive.ph/S5tcw>)

Despite the harassment, she joined a collaboration channel entitled We R Nakama, with people like double4anime and Code provider. (Nakama-Cast: Living it Up in Booby Tail / WRN: What If We Were In Naruto / WRN: The Future of Anime In 10 Years / WRN: Fake Anime Fans Vs Perception /)

In July, Emily collaborated on the song Autumn's Moment with Anthony, and had agreed to be in the music video as well. On July 30th, after the first day of shooting, Emily posted a video of herself dancing in her bra on youtube, which led to more harassment, with someone reuploading it and spamming it to her facebook friends. Anthony was one of those friends who the message was spammed to, and he had this reaction in our private facebook messages. (read screenshots down to up)

Because of the harassment, Anthony and Bryce had to completely scrap a day's worth of filming, and had to find another person to fill in for her role. The person that Anthony replaced Emily with was another frequent collaborator, and someone who Anthony also had a close relationship with. This other person never received any harassment, as they will attest to and confirm. Which wouldn't be the case if the harassment came from me and was out of romantic jealousy.

Here's proof that Emily was replaced in the video.

Anthony was not pissed with Emily, and more pissed that someone did this to her, and in essence, to him. In response, I almost immediately ask if she is okay, and talk about how whoever is doing this is fucked up.

Emily herself acknowledged this harassment taking place during this time on her dedicated Sugarfruit fan page a day after this all occurred.

Haters gonna hate right guys? Thank you all for being there for me, it means so much, ya'll have no idea 😊

After this occurred, on August 27th, 2013, she was going in for a job interview. She posted these two photos, stating as much

(<https://www.instagram.com/p/dhzYr7RWzU/> <https://archive.is/NgH0I>)

(<https://www.instagram.com/p/dhzgx3xWzl/> <https://archive.is/Pl11J>)

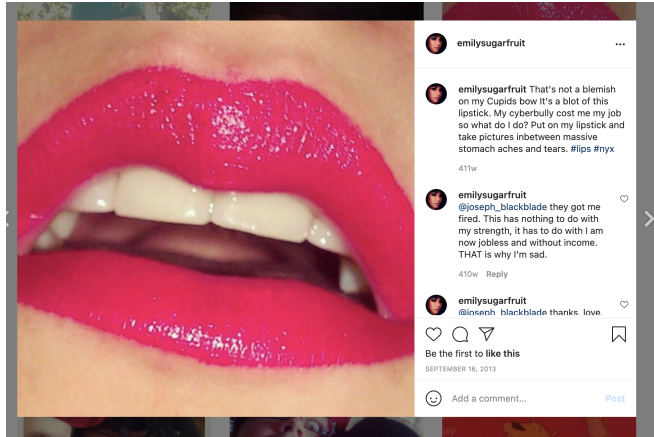

Three days after the interview, her facebook got hacked. She promptly made a new one, which is still active, and said this.

Sometime between the interview and September 16th, she got the job. However, on September 16th, 2013, Emily posted this photo on instagram with the caption, that's not a blemish on my Cupid's bow, it's a blot of lipstick. My cyberbully cost me my job so now what do I do? Put on my lipstick and take pictures between massive stomach aches and tears. Hashtag lip hashtag nyx .

(<https://www.instagram.com/p/eWDVs0RW-t/> / <https://archive.ph/xLgDz>)

While she makes no mention as to what happened, we can assume that her job found out about YouTube, and let her go.

Emily stated in her video that someone posed as a client and sent an inappropriate video of her camming to her boss, but because she didn't start camming until 2014, a year after, that can't be true. With this coming so close after her facebook was hacked, it's very possible that someone who disliked her youtube channel that was publicly harassing her was behind this.

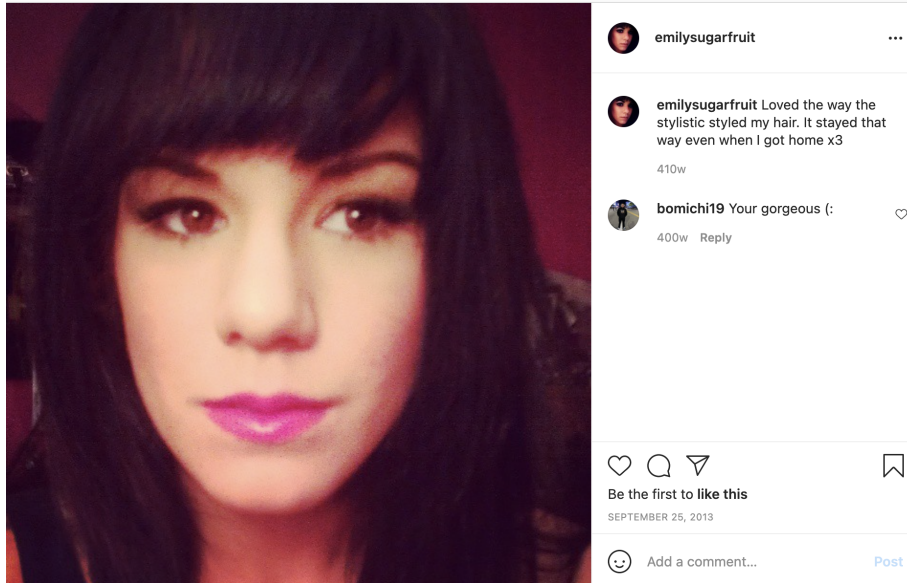

Emily has acknowledged this occurrence before multiple times on her Emily Artful channel, stating it was the youtube anime community behind this, not Anthony or I. However the videos in which she talks about it were deleted.

MOVING. TWO VIDEOS A WEEK?! & MORE! | Channel Update / <https://archive.ph/S5tcw>)

Emily said in her slanderous video that this firing led to her being homeless after leaving her “abusive boyfriend who was forcing her to do cam work”, which again, could not have happened. Meaning she was also never homeless.

We can further prove she wasn't homeless based on Emily's own instagram and the progression of photos she placed on them.

She was fired on September 16, 2013. Then 9 days later, on September 25, 2013, she posts her last photo at her father's home. We can tell this because of the pink wall in the background.

(https://www.instagram.com/p/eq_E9_RW1Y/ <https://archive.ph/IH2tV>)

Loved the way the stylistic styled my hair. It stayed that way even when I got home. So losing her job didn't impact her home life at all.

The next picture she posts is this one on October 4th of some pillows on a bed with a white wall in the background.

(<https://www.instagram.com/p/fC8jxrRW8F/> <https://archive.ph/xYHiD>)

The caption says, it's funny how the littlest things he does for me make my life all that more amazing. Finally got a pillow for my side of the bed.

Showing that she moved from her fathers home, into her boyfriend BOB's home.

At no point sleeping on the street, and at no point dealing with an abusive ex who forced her into cam work. This is also the residence she stayed in with said boyfriend and his mother before she was able to move in with her now husband. (What's been on my mind recently... + I Dated A Sociopath | Storytime)

Emily lied about being homeless, and then went further to state that Anthony and I weren't really homeless, because we didn't live on the street and have to rummage through dumpsters the way she did. I have always been open about how I became homeless because of the want to not accrue more debt, which is a very valid reason for someone to become homeless. In fact, in my interview with less than a home, I spoke to other homeless creators who were doing the same thing. Emily feeling the need to lie about this in order to invalidate mine and my husbands struggles is incredibly disturbing.

Part 5 Camming

Emily moved in with BOB in October of 2013, and according to her dedicated twitter for her porn account, she started cam modeling June 12, 2014, and was only active until July 28th that same year. A little bit over a month.

(twitter.com/vixey_larouge / <https://archive.is/aYXE2>)

This twitter only accrued 10 followers, and most of her posts have no likes. (Twitter.com/vixey_larouge) <https://archive.ph/aYXE2>

She spoke on youtube about having to share a bedroom with him after they broke up in her “I dated a sociopath video,” so this comment is about him. However, he wasn’t her roommate at the time, he was her boyfriend, as we can see here, from her comment on a photo of him

According to herself, she was still living with this person when she started her YouTube channel, something she references in multiple of her early videos favorably.

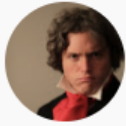

She also has instagram posts and a deviantart account from 2015 talking about him being her beloved, and referencing him in a romantic way.

Emily only did cam work once in her life, during this short time frame. Meaning the only ex boyfriend who could have forced her into it is BOB, while they were living with his mother in a one bedroom apartment. However, seeing as she sees him and his mother as her children's surrogate uncle and grandmother, it's doubtful this ever actually happened.

Despite this, he is currently on reddit and on youtube defending her actions.

Yes, the song is called "Stardust." It was written by Anthony Parker, with Emily Artful on vocals. I have the link, but it's dead because Anthony deleted all his socials after her Creep video came out: https://www.youtube.com/attribution_link?a=C8tgQ4mVl7M&u=/watch?v%3DokKryhgj0bw%26feature%3Dshare

Part 6 Disproving her own story/random lies

Emily said she started getting Facebook friend requests from people she didn't know in 2014, when she started working with Anthony professionally, and said it was all Anthony and me. However, after she got clean in November of 2012, she and Anthony became Facebook friends themselves, meaning he wouldn't have needed to make a fake account to get information on her the way she says was done. She debunks this claim herself, without realizing it, by showing their facebook messages from this time, where she tells him where she is working.

Here he discovers what kind of restaurant I work at. This is also proof that I was also about to start working as a makeup artist (I did not end up getting a license and instead just advertised on social media and got clients through craigslist)

At this time I was dating someone else and not speaking to Anthony at all. Meaning any jealous motivation I would have had according to Emily, would be gone.

Emily says her Facebook account was hacked and nudes were taken off of it and placed onto photo bucket publicly. Photobucket doesn't allow nude/lewd photos on their site, so the likelihood of this happening is slim. Photobuckets policies are actively very anti nudity.

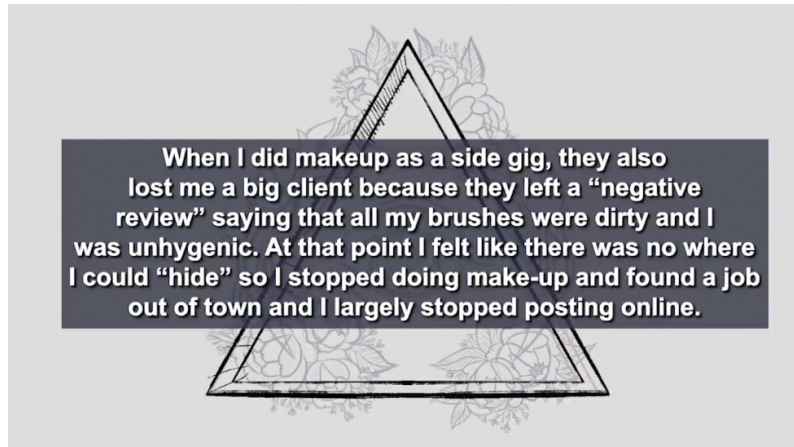

Emily also lies and withholds evidence, which leads me to believe this never actually occurred. I can actually prove her facebook was hacked with screenshots from her own, currently active account. However, these screenshots go against her story that she was hacked when she was doing cam work, and that Anthony or I had anything to do with it. She purposely withheld the evidence in order to slander my husband and I.

She doesn't show proof of the account being phished, which would have been done via email, which she says she still has access to. She says the location of the hacking/log in attempt was in San Jose, but she didn't think much of it because quote "all of her friends were from San Jose, so it could have been anyone."

The email Emily stated was used to hack her facebook was "whydolhavetodothis22", which is attached to a youtube channel called reno2200. This account was active up till a year ago, posting gaming videos.

Meaning the person behind this account is most likely the person who hacked Emily. Neither Anthony or I have anything to do with this account.

Emily states on screen in her video that she was also working as a professional makeup artist at this time, and that Anthony and I lost her a huge client because we allegedly wrote a negative review saying that all her brushes were dirty and she was unhygienic. She later disproves that via twitter.

She contradicts her original statement by showing screenshots of her conversations with Anthony saying she was just about to start work as a makeup artist after she gets her certification, but then states in the tweet itself that she never got her license and simply advertised herself on social media and got clients via craigslist. (<https://twitter.com/EmilyArtful/status/1403961896823361543> <https://archive.ph/GTkvW>)

Meaning there would be no way to leave a negative review for her services, seeing as she only got clients via craigslist and social media, where reviews cannot be left.

I also found the social media she is talking about to showcase her makeup on, and it's <https://theretroface.tumblr.com/> <https://archive.ph/9M7K0>

The screenname, the retro face, was also her original url for her current youtube channel.

She only posted 5 times to this blog, for about a month between September and October 2014. She was always the person featured, and never showed any client work, besides her doing a sugar skull on her boyfriend of halloween.

Last November, a Sugar Skull on dias de los muertos.

Model is Ben.

October 25, 2014

This would be two months after she stopped doing cam work, meaning she would have been homeless at the time, further discrediting her story.

No negative reviews are left on the blog, and most of her posts have zero notes on them. I couldn't find any other social media with that name on it, or any other place for a negative review to be left. She did have a makeup youtube channel that was never uploaded to that was made January 2014.

Emily mentioned in her I dated a sociopath video that she worked at a beauty supply shop at that time, which was Peninsula Beauty in San Mateo. This was confirmed by the fact that Emily used a company branded pen in her 10 dollar art supply challenge video which is still live on her channel.

I then went and found the yelp page for this establishment and found that there are no reviews naming Emily, mentioning her doing makeup, or anything of the like.

Meaning at most, we can prove she was a sales associate working at a makeup store. No proof online exists that she ever was a working makeup artist, or that she had a “big” client that she did make up on that cancelled on her because of a negative review posted online by anyone.

Emily then stated in her video that after she lost her makeup job, she would never post where she was, her schedule, or anything else about her life on a public platform because it would be used to harass her.

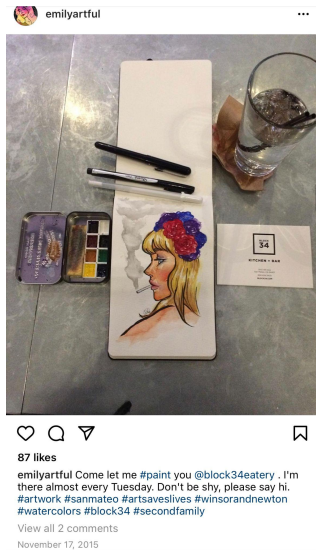

However, as I am about to illustrate, that is not the case.

Even though the entirety of this story is false, I will work within that time frame to further disprove her claims. For Emily's statements to be true, after October 2015 she would have to have no posts online tagging her location, stating where she is, and the like.

At the time, she was using her Emily Artful instagram, apparently under the name Emily Velvette. The account was public, as seen by the multiple times public accounts like mod notebooks reached out to her and other accounts found her via tags.

A month after she stated “Anthony and I lost her a big client”, she posted this on instagram

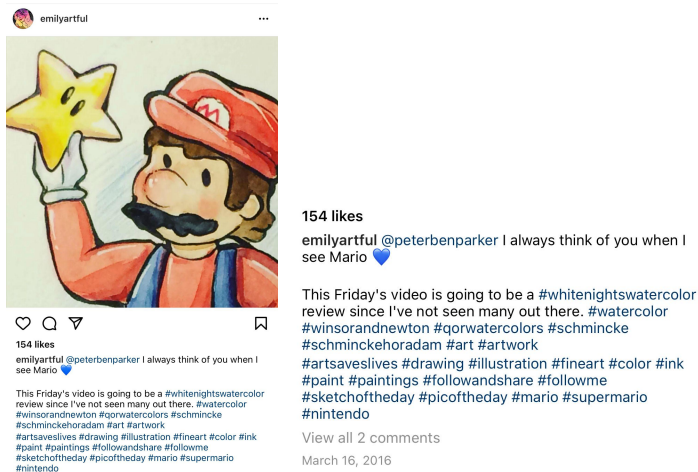

Come let me hash tag paint you @block34eatery. I'm there almost every Tuesday. Don't be shy, please say hi. #artwork #sanmateo #block34 .

https://www.instagram.com/p/-NoSp3wOdo/?utm_medium=copy_link / <https://archive.ph/IFQhw>

Emily was publicly posting her location online, publicly stating where she was, and stating that she would be there every Tuesday. Which disproves her current statement

Anthony also followed her on this account, and they would interact regularly, most of which she deleted before making her video. However, she did accidentally keep up one post where she drew Mario in March of 2016, with the caption @peterbenparker I always think of you when I see Mario 💙.

https://www.instagram.com/p/BDCP5MNwOei/?utm_medium=copy_link / <https://archive.ph/pe2bA>

Peterbenparker was what Anthony went by on social media at that time. Here are some screenshots that show that,

This also would've occurred after she said she was harassed on snapchat. More on that in part 7.

She posted on instagram in July of 2016, showing her playing fetch with her dog tagging their location at San Mateo Central Park and Red Morton Sports Fields. She did this again in September of 2016, showing once more that she not scared of posting her location. And was actively posting where she was on a public account.

She posted videos to her channel in 2016, where she stated where she was living at the time, walking around her city, her favorite spots and more. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ew815mo4NZY>) She states what city she is in, along with her going to a food truck area by her home, and going to quote her favorite dessert shop. She shows the front of multiple buildings, the inside of various spots, and states she goes here all the time. This goes against what she said she did in her original video.

In other videos, like the I dated a sociopath video and her scariest customer ever video where she talks about where she is working, that being a beauty supply shop in the san francisco bay area.

She was never scared of being stalked or harassed, as all of her social medias show.

Proof exists that shows she is lying. No proof exists that shows what she said actually happened.

Part 7 The Snapchats

Emily doesn't state when she got the messages from Snapchat directly, but implies it happen before she spoke to Anthony via twitter. But we can prove it could have only happened in 2016, because they make reference to her youtube channel, which she didn't start, according to her video "2016 in review" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GabPU-b9LtI> / <https://archive.ph/la6tl>), till early 2016. It would have had to have happened before she moved in with her now husband, given that in her boyfriend tag video, she talks about how she was moving from a small apartment into a large home. This is important, because she states she was in an apartment when she pulled a gun because of the messages. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hDm0CCHpU54&t=49s>)

Based on the fact that the messages mention Mother's day, and the fact that this would have had to have happened before she moved, which she posted occurred on November 18th 2016, it could have only happened between May and November 18th.

But we can shorten the window even further. On November 14th, Emily posted this to instagram, promoting her snapchat and asking her followers to go over and follow her. Which you wouldn't do if you just had a traumatic experience involving the app that caused you to pull a gun in your own apartment. Meaning she could have only gotten the snap chats on the 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th or 18th of November.

Thanks to some people over on reddit, (https://www.reddit.com/r/creepshowart/comments/pbw9g9/whats_the_mind_bending_thumb_bending_video/)

I have found out that these messages that were sent to Emily were actually apart of some viral marketing done for what appears to be an ARG. Multiple other internet personalities publicly stated they received messages in 2017 about the "mindbending thumb bending" video. This was clearly someone trying to get interest in their ARG by harassing different content creators online so that they would post the messages.

What's the "Mind Bending Thumb Bending" video referred to by Anthony?

Discussion

I got a DM request on Twitter a few years ago that reads "Though often ignored by the proletariat masses, the Mind Bending Thumb Bending video has led me on the enlightened path to cute boy thumb-bending nirvana".

I didn't respond to it although I did look the video up but found nothing. I'd long since forgotten about it until it was mentioned in Emily Artful's video and now I'm curious again.

Anyone have some context for me?

Interesting! You and Emily seemingly aren't the only ones who received this kind of DM in 2017. Illustrator Syd Walter tweeted about getting one back then and also shared a screenshot: <https://twitter.com/SydWalter/status/844814101650411520/photo/1>

In the tweets, someone is pondering if the person sending the DM is the one who made the "Mind Bending Thumb Bending Video" (click to view on the Wayback Machine) and used these weird DMs to advertise it and make people look it up in order to go viral. You can see that this was the goal from the original video description: "A soon to be viral epic trick."

Which in turn makes me wonder if this particular DM Emily received wasn't from the person's stalking her (allegedly Shannon and Anthony) and she just assumed it was the same person because she got so much fucked up shit from them anyway.

Btw, according to this Wiki, the Mind Bending Thumb Bending Video is a video that an alien race in Kurt Vonnegut books enjoys watching, so this might be where the term originated: <https://ultimatepopculture.fandom.com/wiki/Traffanadore>

Because the other content creators who received these messages were getting these messages in 2017, it's unlikely that the messages were sent to Emily in 2016, meaning that her entire story about pulling a gun in her ex boyfriends California apartment could not have happened. Meaning it was a lie.

According to Emily's second video on my husband and I, she continued to have romantic conversations with Anthony throughout 2016, and showed messages between them from December 2016, which would be a month after.

We can prove Anthony and I had no part in this because he didn't have a phone at the time this would have occurred, and we shared mine. I have only ever had a public snap chat, which I used to link in the description of my videos. Neither of us have ever had a snap chat under the name Kilgore trout, and we can prove that through phone records, Apple ID and any investigation would immediately clear us of this allegation.

I mentioned that we can prove our innocence in this case to another YouTuber who has since leaked all my messages to Emily, and Emily quickly changed her story in the YouTube comment section.

UPDATES/CLARIFICATIONS

+ Additional Receipts Thread: <https://tinyurl.com/5bk226wb>

+To be clear, Anthony did NOT break into my home and assault me. I knowingly invited him in but because I was so heavily and visibly intoxicated, I was not able to consent.

+ To be clear, Shanthony didn't initially know 2 of the photographs they were using against me were of me when I was 15/16. I pointed it out to them at one point but they sort of just ignored me.

+To be clear, the Snapchat photographs were most likely NOT taken in my city. I'm guessing it's somewhere in their area and they were just piggybacking off of my fear that they were here.

+Looks like Shannon deleted that rant video she made about how every artYouTuber makes a "My Art Teacher hates me" video, in which she used my vid in her thumbnail as an example. Interesting.

+People are saying that in Shannon's stalker video she mentions "Amy" having "emo boys crawl through her window" to visit her when I've stated publicly that when I lived with my Dad, that is how I would sneak people in and how I would sneak out.

+Someone one else pointed out that Shannon has specifically mentioned "not having enough money for a PI or an attorney" when she referenced her stalker. She posted this video after I confronted her wherein I tell her I have hired both.

+Someone pointed out that I talk about a "void" in my email to Anthony and then he uses "void" as a taunt in the Snapchat exchange. Might be an actual coincidence since the exchanges were several years apart, but they obsessed over every little thing I did so this might be of note.

She changed her story to now state that she "no longer believes we were in her area," but we were just posting photos from around her area to freak her out.

She never says why she didn't call the police to let them know she was getting what she considered to be death threats and thought that someone was on her way to murder her.

Instead, Emily took screenshots. Screenshots she knew that snapchat would notify her stalker of. Meaning she chose to antagonize this person she thought was coming to kill her rather than call the cops, which, if she had been being stalked since middle school like she said she was, she would know is a bad idea.

There should be some record of this happening with law enforcement. There isn't. Emily went on to say on twitter she went into the police department and told them about this, and they turned her away. However, if you called the cops as it was occurring, seeing as you thought someone was outside, coming to kill you, there would be records of that. You would at least get an incident report. I know this from experience. Her also stating she was turned away goes against her claiming the police have a file on Anthony and myself.

She has no evidence to show that this was us, her lawyer, the police and private investigator told her this wasn't us, and yet she is claiming without evidence it is.

Part 8 Anthony's tweets

Anthony lightly trolled her in order to figure out why she had blocked him on instagram, because they had been on good terms the last time they spoke, as seen in her post tagging him, and he wanted to know what happened. He states as much in his message. Emily also asks if he's the person harassing her, to which he replies no, because if he is going to say something, it will have his name and his photo next to it.

Like he had just done. In the messages that were clearly joking in nature.

Side note: I didn't write any of Anthony's messages to her. That was all him.

Part 9 the rewired soul

Emily states that she got hate from an account called DatboiXD and it was me. It was not.

Her stating that this account had to have been me and could have only been me is entirely false, and takes the entirety of the rewired soul situation out of context. When the drama with the rewired soul was happening, a lot of channels like my own talked about it openly, and discussed what was going on and why we didn't like how Chris was using his channel. However, because his channel was mental health focused and appealed to vulnerable people, there were a lot of people who were affected by the situation who lashed out.

A lot of the people who were directly affected by him dealt with mental disorders, and were not coping with the stress well.

They lashed out at creators critiquing Chris, they lashed out at people defending him, if you were present at that time, you would remember that one person who was critical of Chris ended up getting swatted, while another had a well fair check called on them. Repzilla was hated by extension for his perceived friendship with Chris, and any one who had collaborated with him was criticized heavily .

People like Repzilla, Leaf E Greens, Driven Industries, Smokey Glow, Syren Cove and myself were all harassed during this time, because we were talking about this situation.

For Emily to state that she got a message from someone harassing her doesn't surprise me, because everyone was getting that at the time, including me. But for her to say it was unequivocally me without evidence, is just wrong.

After her video dropped, Emily made various tweets accusing other people on twitter of being me multiple times. None of these accounts were me, and were very clearly trolls capitalizing on the situation. She also went further to claim people criticizing her for her lack of evidence where also me, and asked her fans to attack them.

Part 10 my problem with a big YouTuber

Emily states that I commented on this video multiple times under false names shit talking myself and saying it was me. This is not true. I remember the video when it came out, I got sent a fair amount of harassing messages saying it was me, and I thought that was stupid, because when I watched the video, one of the qualifications was the YouTuber who was harassing Emily had more subscribers than her, and I had no where near as many subscribers as she did.

I put that statement up just to say it wasn't me in a joking manner. I also repeated my position on collabs, which I had previously stated online. I also stated I have trust issues with a lot of people who I meet online.

None of it had anything to do with Emily, besides me stating it wasn't me who she was talking about.

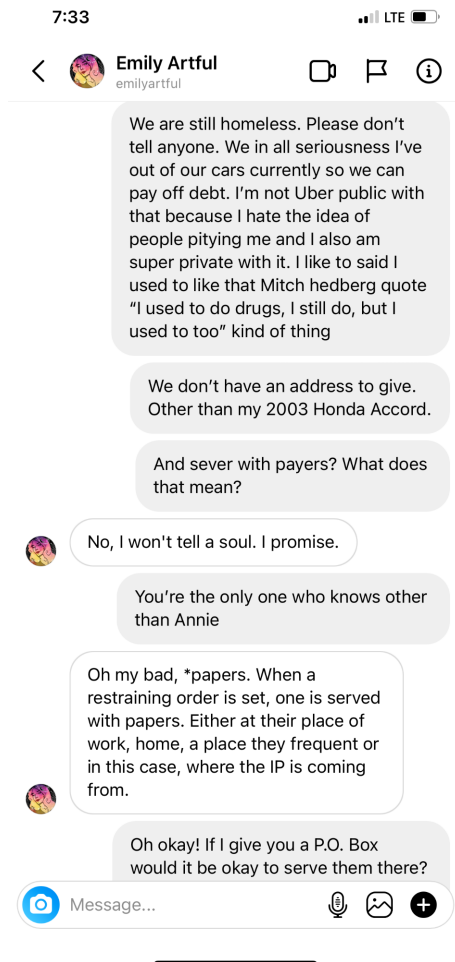

I also should draw attention to the fact that she stated in her video on me that she never got any comments sent to her bringing up any other art YouTuber, besides myself. Which is false, seeing as in her my problem with a big art youtuber video, she states that another art youtuber was sending her harassment because she thought Emily was copying her art.

She shows at the end of her video that she has apparent screenshots that show it was me in the comments of the video, but blurs out the IP as to not dox me. Seeing as I didn't have a home at the time, she wouldn't have been doxing my place of residence, or be doxing me at all.

She also knew I was homeless at the time, because I told her as much in our direct messages that same day. She choose to blur these messages out for some reason, as if they incredibly sensitive and private, despite them being years out of date.

Why she chose to blur them makes no sense. People know I was homeless, they just didn't know I actually got out of homelessness by moving into an apartment in October of 2019, and not earlier like I said.

She even went as far as to blur out my Mitch Hedberg joke, despite the fact that it wasn't private information and was literally a quote from a famous comedian that has an apt take on why I would hide that information. Here are the uncensored receipts. Also as you can see, I can still respond to Emily, because I was never blocked like she stated.

She said she blurred the messages because it was sensitive and she didn't want to dox me, as if that would be a step too far after falsely accusing Anthony of rape and me of owning child porn. God forbid you show the messages where I say I'm homeless.

I believe she did this so she could try to paint me giving her a PO Box number as me being flakey, and so she could say that the IP led her to where I was living, even though that is not possible. She did both things.

She later back tracked and stated she tracked the IP address down to a library, and after watching some of my content, knows that that is where I stated I was uploading from whilst I was homeless. Which doesn't line up with her reason why she didn't want to show the IP address in the first place. If the IP address leads to a library, it wouldn't dox me and she would have simply shown it.

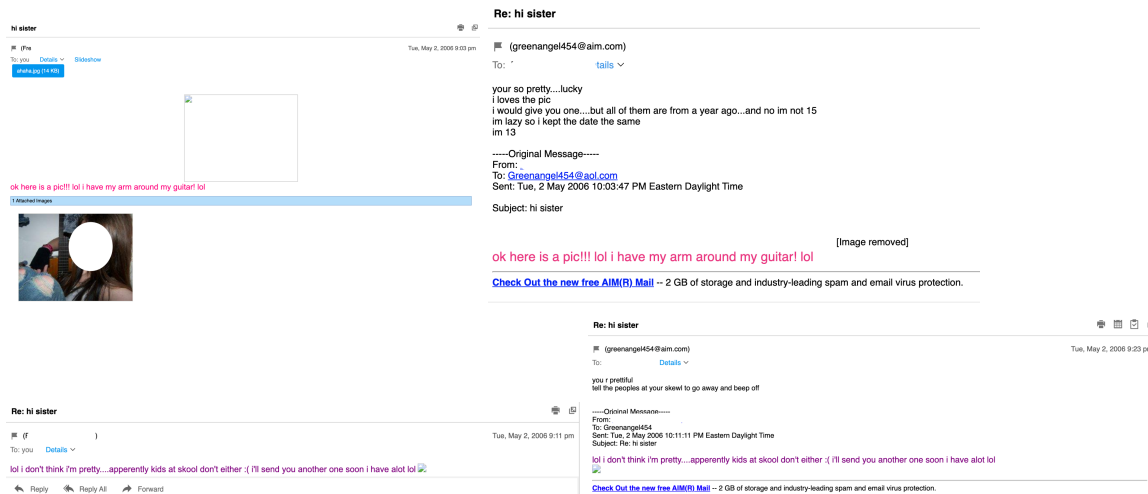

So either she has an ip address for a library, and lied to say it contained my dox, or she had an ip address that led to somewhere I never lived. Either way, she lied about the ip address, she blurred my messages to lie about what they contained, and lied about why she can't show any evidence.

Part 11 “Amy”

This part is going to be brief, but Amy is not a reference to Emily. Amy is the name of the girl who used to harass me online who I originally met on Stardoll dot com when I was in middle school. As I say in the video, Amy did not grow up in San Jose with me, we never knew each other personally, she was someone I strictly knew online who lived states away from me. Emily tried in her video to state that video was secretly about her, that I was setting a backstory up to one day say that she was actually Amy, and by simply calling her Amy I was referencing her, because according to her, I was trying to lay bread crumbs online and trying to paint Emily as a malicious stalker. This is not the case, and also very stupid.

The video I put up, which is still up, has various details about Amy that don't match with Emily. It would make no sense for me to say that Emily and I were friends online or ever, seeing as I never knew her outside of her being a friend of some friends and one of my boyfriends exes from before I even had a crush on him. Me stating that she grew up states away would also not align with her being Emily, seeing as Emily went to school in California. It makes no sense for that video to be about her.

Here are the emails between Amy and I from middle school. These are exactly in line with what I say in my video. I didn't post these originally because 1. They are cringey as fuck because we nonironically talk like the characters of My Immortal, and 2. I don't have access to my high school email where the harassment was sent.

It's important to note that two things can be true, and not negate the other. Emily and I could have gone through something similar, that being online harassment, and still not speak, get along, or any of that. Her trying to say that because she thinks I did this, I could never have been stalked, and then going on to invent a situation in which everything I produce is suddenly about her, is incredibly gross and narcissistic behavior.

In the video, after I let Emily know that an account messaged me and sent me some weird information on her that I was uncomfortable with, none of which was what she stated it was, she stated that if someone else was harassing her and sending weird messages about her to other channels, they would have quote, just made a video on her themselves. She also stated that no one else got these messages, but I know for a fact Hopeless Peaches and one account that no longer exists also got these messages, because we talked about how uncomfortable it made us.

However, in response to that assertion, I have to say this. Emily, if I wanted to make a video on you because I had all of this information, wouldn't I just do that? I was already making commentary content, I was already making call outs. If I wanted to cancel you as you said I did, I would have just made a video with the screenshots of you taking photos of other women in public, making fun of their bodies and posting them on twitter saying that'll do pig, that'll do, or fat girls piss me off, funny women are jews, the rest are retarded and we laugh out of sheer disappointment or even her saying, on a post of an anorexic teenage girl that she's skinnier than her.

I didn't make a video because I didn't know about those things until now. I didn't make a video then, and I'm only making one now because you falsely accused Anthony and I of stalking you, while also stating you have no evidence and would lose a court case.

She also states that me telling her that someone messaged me like this was my way of saying I have so much information on her. Me saying I didn't do something and wasn't going to do something was not my way of telling her I was going to do something.

Emily purposely misinterprets anything I have said to her to make it appear as if I am telling her the opposite. If I tell her I understand what she is going through and am more than happy to sign a restraining order or any legal document that states I will not contact her, that means I am engaging in psychological warfare with her and using reverse psychology to say I won't. If I tell her I am sorry for what she is going through because I know how isolating being harassed online can be, I am actually telling her I am the one who has been doing this all along and I am getting joy out of this.

I also provided Emily a way to send me a restraining order that would have been just as legally binding without spending money, something she stated she didn't want to do at the time because she was out of money, and I agreed to sign it. I gave her my legal information and told her exactly how to reach Anthony and I. And she hid the messages to make it appear as if I was doing the opposite.

This is why no lawyer she took this to supported the idea of taking this to court.

Part 13. 2014

In compiling evidence to potentially take this case to court, I reviewed my old facebook logs that I downloaded before I deleted my account in 2019. In those records, I found that Emily has had an issue with me since 2014, very shortly after Anthony and I started talking again, when I left a review for her boyfriend's work. I didn't know her boyfriend worked there, and the review was left when Anthony and I weren't speaking.

Shannon Cld recommends Heaney Violins.

Really great shop! The people were super friendly and really helped me and my friend out. Definitely somewhere I would recommend to everyone! (We were helped by Hannah and another young man who's name I didn't quite catch!)

I didn't know her boyfriend was working there, they had asked for facebook reviews as we were leaving, and it was such a nothing interaction I really don't remember much of it. However, Emily saw this review and messaged Anthony about it, telling him I hate her. Here are the messages. (read bottom up)

Part 14 her history of false claims

Emily has been posting online to various accounts online since she was 13, all of which have been verified to belong to her. From these accounts, I realized that Emily has an extremely long pattern of obsessive behavior over people she is romantically attracted to, and a very long pattern of calling people who she has been attracted to abusive after the fact.

As of now, according to her own posts, she has accused upwards of 16 people of abusing her in her life, including her parents. She has later retracted most of these claims.

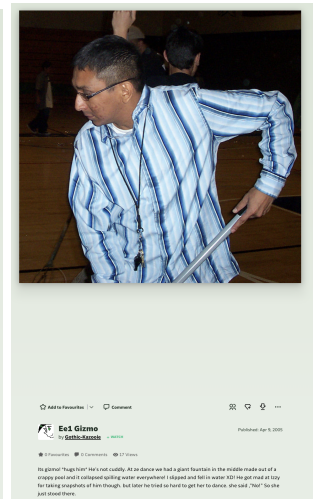

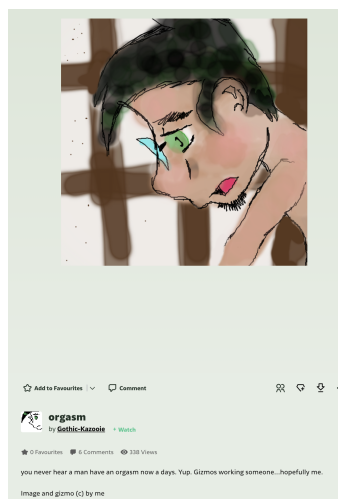

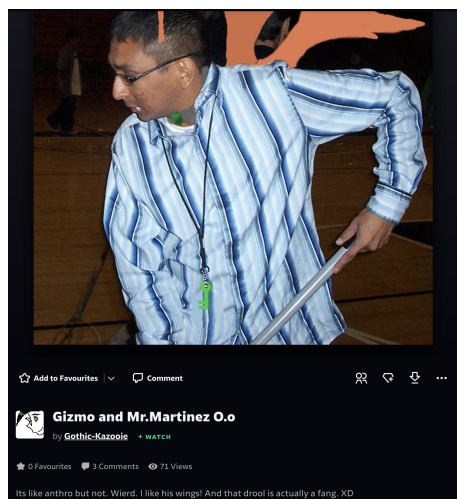

In the first deviant art profile under the name Gothic-Kazooie (<https://www.deviantart.com/gothic-kazooie> <https://archive.ph/OEeQa>), which is clearly her as seen in this picture,

(<https://www.deviantart.com/gothic-kazooie/art/OMG-Ish-MEH-XD-16186364> / <https://archive.ph/gvm4x>)

Emily talks about stalking her teacher in various posts, something she admits to in the video she uploaded in 2016, titled my 7th grade sketchbook flip through (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QUsZQpUDubg>) In the video she says this was harmless, however it was not.

(<https://www.deviantart.com/gothic-kazooie/art/Gizmo-and-Mr-Martinez-O-o-17449343> / <https://archive.ph/xuGjZ>)

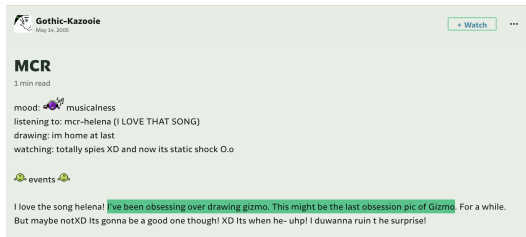

She makes a fan character out of him named gizmo, takes photos of him without him knowing, which she then states he told her to delete, calls him sexy, states she loves him, draws him sexually ,and after feeling upset by him being cold towards her, posted a journal in which she says he quote, emotionally raped her for not returning her feelings.

(<https://www.deviantart.com/gothic-kazooie/journal/gonna-kill-and-rape-you-the-way-you-raped-me-248753658> <https://archive.ph/FPYpx>)

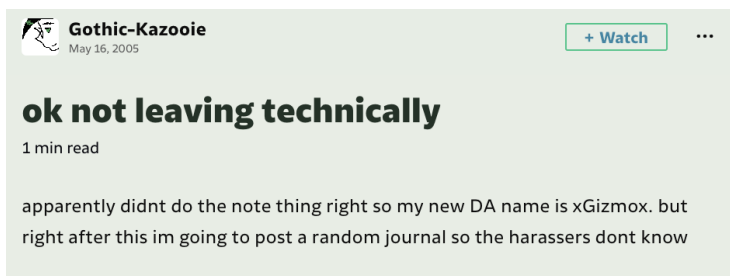

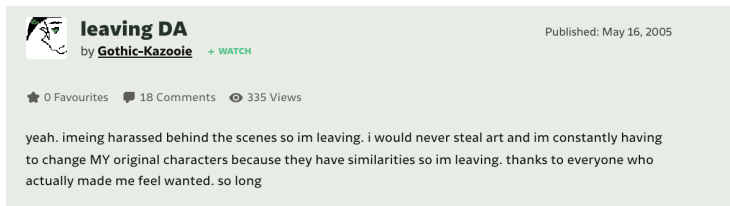

She talks about him incessantly on this profile, going so far as to draw fan art of him and her kissing, drawings of her confessing her love to him and make posts dedicated to how much she wants to be with him. Some of these posts are extremely graphic in nature.

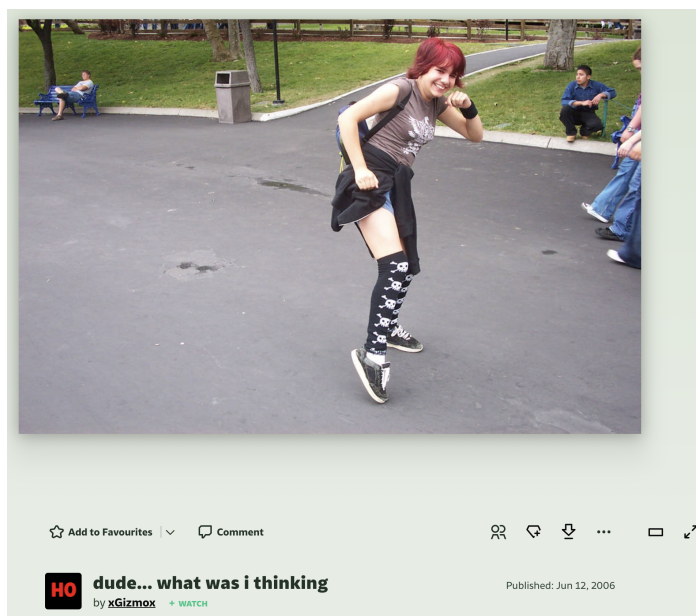

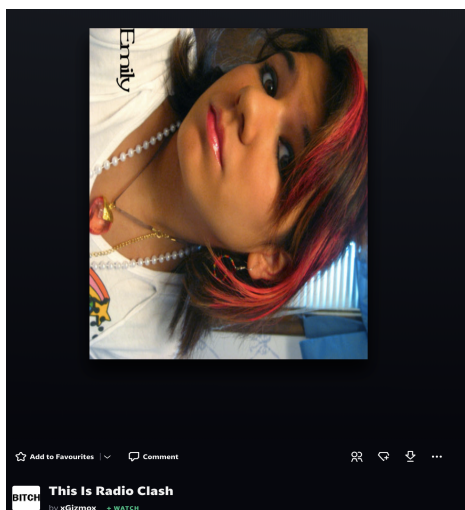

On this account, she was accused of stealing someone else's art, which she said led to her being harassed.

She then made a new deviant art account under the name gizmo. Which is the nickname she gave her teacher.

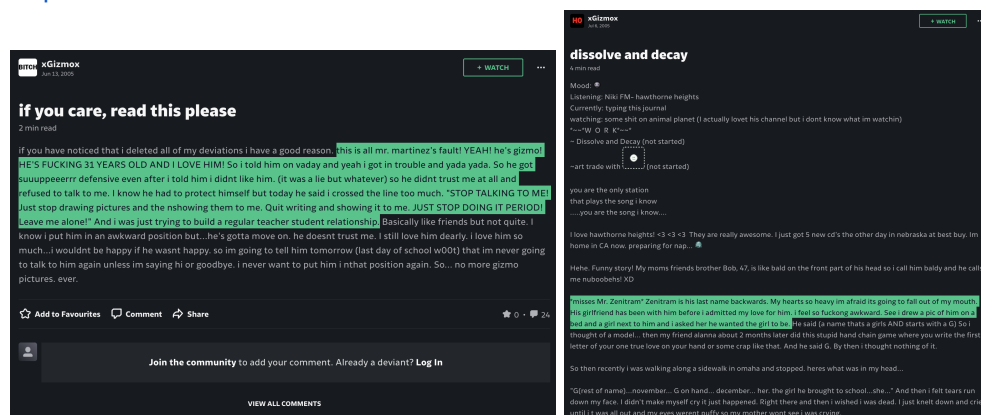

<https://www.deviantart.com/xgizmoX/art/This-Is-Radio-Clash-60246662>

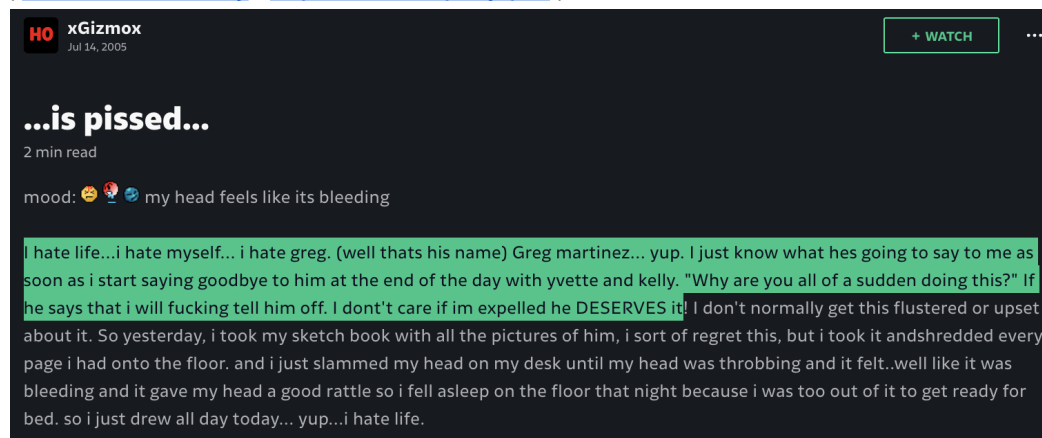

She continues to post about this adult man, how she told him she loved him, and got mad when he told her she was behaving inappropriately and needed to stop drawing him, writing about him and stop putting him in uncomfortable positions. When he asked her to stop, she deleted all the posts. However, she would then go on to write blogs about him, which referred to him by his full legal name, letting her classmates know who she was talking about.

<https://www.deviantart.com/xgizmoz/journal/if-you-care-read-this-please-248899677>

/https://archive.is/nxLnF

(dissolve and decay / <https://archive.ph/lyqRh>)

(<https://www.deviantart.com/xgizmoz/journal/is-pissed-249025992> /

According to her blog, she also held him responsible for her self harm. In this post she states that after a negative interaction with him she shredded all her artwork of him and slammed her head on her desk until it felt like it was bleeding, and then passed out on the floor.

While this was the first time she posted like this online that we could find, it certainly isn't the last.

I QUIT! hollow breadsticks

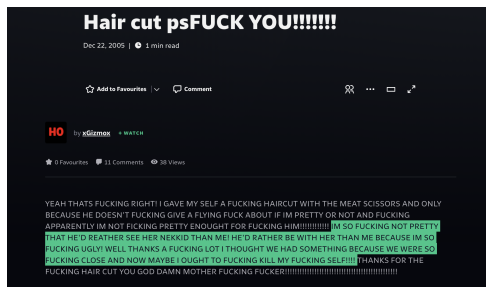

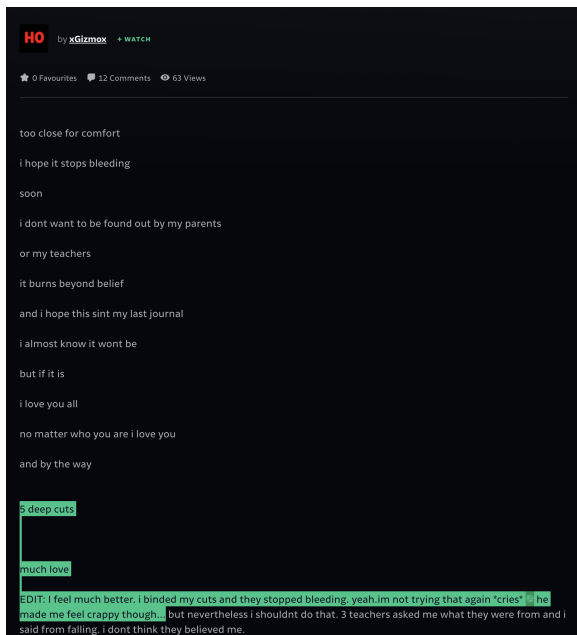

<https://archive.is/0wXmG>
/ <https://archive.ph/PNCbo>

Emily then starts dating someone her age named Zach. She writes multiple times in this blog that whenever he does something that makes her feel bad, it's his fault that she self harms and injures herself, going so far as to say she was going to kill herself in her school's bathroom because he quote, made her feel crappy.

This blog cannot be factual, given that she posted this in 2009, from the perspective of being in the bathroom, on the floor dying, even though phones wouldn't have had the ability to post to the internet, much less deviant art at that time. Rather she posted this online from either a computer lab at school, or from her home, in order to make him feel bad, or to make her friends think he abused her in some way.

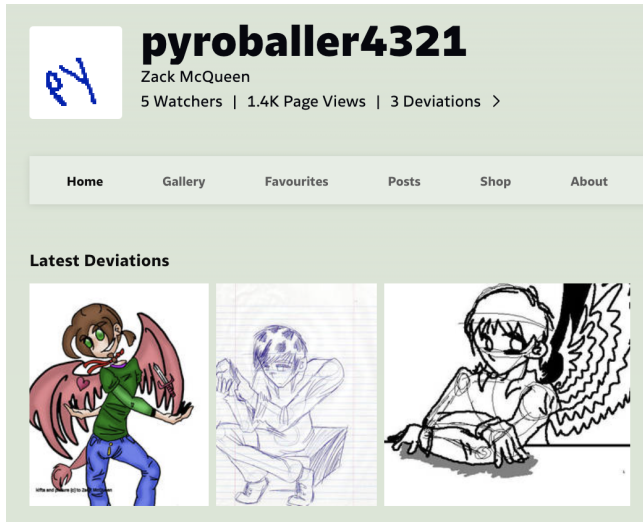

She even goes as far to end it by directly blaming him, stating he made her “feel crappy”. Again, this is not an isolated incident, as seen in this other blog.

cut EDIT
<https://archive.ph/gB5o4>

<https://archive.ph/utpCr>

Emily also created a deviant art account for him, which she uploaded her art to as if it's his own. It appears that everything on this account is either about her or related to her, and it's unclear if he ever had access to this account.

The last post on this account was this journal “he” posted after he broke up with Emily. While I can’t be sure, it looks exactly like a post she had previously made during their relationship, when cut her hair after he made her feel bad. I personally believe she posted this, in an effort to hurt his reputation with her friends.

She then accused some unknown entity that goes unchecked of stalking and harassing her in 2006 as well, in two blog posts. the reasons why i am sad <https://archive.ph/80JfR>

yes, because certain people dont care about my feelings im going to provide some LOGICAL reasons why i am upset a lot, because QUITE FRANKLY they just think they can just say what they want about me without KNOWING me

- I am mentally disabled. YEAH! You heard it here first. I have ocd and short term memory loss. They bother me and cause depression and I CANT HELP IT!
- When in my youth... er- youther(Xp) I had trouble with anorexia... sometimes it still comes back to haunt me
- my parents love my dog more than they love me. They dont like my artwork and no matter what i do i can always do better! If i fucking was president of the us my parents would say, "It's good..." And leave it at that. They put on a face for my friends and relatives and it hurts...
- love hurts... no matter what position; crushing, boyfriend, dating, it all hurts sometimes.

i need a hug 🥺
he ruined my life
he still loves me
but he doesnt want to risk hurting me again
but i dont care
so long as hes with me ill be indestructable and strong but without him
im dead inside

and then, three days after, posted a blog about how she was probably pregnant. ok no one panic XD
<https://archive.ph/sPis2>

In the blog post she goes on to say her ex boyfriend won't be there for the child. And then, 2 days after that, she posts about she probably had a miscarriage because she started her period. Miscarriage
<https://archive.ph/h5XhK>

Meaning, 3 days after this person broke up with her, a person she would blame for her self harm publicly online, and stated he was the reason she wanted to kill herself, she told him she was pregnant. While I don't know if this could have been true at the time, seeing as she said this so quickly after the break up, then stated she probably miscarried later, it leads me to believe she faked this in order to get him to stay with her.

She went on to post a blog about how he abused her and forced her to do things she didn't want to do, only to later on in that same post, say he never harmed her or hurt her.

20 things I'll never miss

- you never looked out for me
- you seemed bored of me
- I never seemed to catch your attention in the right way
- you touched me in ways I sometimes didn't want to be touched, just to get your way
- you backed down at the last minute for a lot of things
- you never initiated anything
- you hurt me so badly emotionally
- I could never satisfy you
- you didn't let me know your family
- you made me an angry, destructive person
- I did so many things for you and I barely got a thank you
- you couldn't keep your promises
- you would get way too angry at me
- I opened my life up to you expecting nothing in return... and that's exactly what I got
- you looked disgusted when you would kiss me
- you couldn't handle some stuff I did and ran away
- you never surprised me just because like I did
- you never took me anywhere, not even target
- you never said I love you just because you could, there was always a reason
- you expected me to just be there

20 things I will miss more than anything

- you would always kiss me first
- you always told the complete truth
- you knew how to treat me well, and with respect
- you never judged my character and sometimes acted just like me to make me feel not alone
- you cried with me
- you would never intentionally hurt me (physically or emotionally) everything was accidental
- you always said "sorry" and not once did you not mean it.
- you would sing me to sleep when I asked you to
- you did your chores on Saturday just to see me on Sunday
- Even if we had an hour, you'd go out of your way to meet me
- We, together, defied gravity
- you accepted me
- you would make me feel safe when I was scared
- you would talk to me if I called you... just to talk
- you took my stupid pkes about you and your male cousin...
- you drove me crazy and I liked it
- you were crazy
- you put up with my attitude
- you wrote a song for me, without me having to ask
- you loved me

She then accuses him of abuse when they do not get back together. In a blog post called why is it- <https://archive.ph/WkxQQ> she talks about how he “took her life away”, and how he’s evil.

i want to post this pic of myself and technically i am nude but it shows nothing its completely censored for comedic reasons and gar yeah. im 16 so technically its illegal.... damnit. screw it im gonna do it haha whyd i write this damn journal XD

she talks about doing just that, and then in her next post, she talks about how she posted child porn of herself, knowing it was illegal, and how she's mad it got taken down

<https://www.deviantart.com/xgizmoX/journal/ha-ha-they-removed-it-250376112> <https://archive.ph/djQ6g>

Back to her ex, she then writes a journal about how he is a liar, how he lied about having phone sex with her Yum... idiots https://archive.ph/DG7rX, how he's a piece of shit holy fucking crap https://archive.ph/RyrFk, and then, immediately after that says they are friends again. And then a month later she again says he's dead to her and abusive. [A Day You'll Just Never Forget \[\[a look back\]\] https://archive.ph/5pLSH](https://archive.ph/5pLSH)

In various quizzes, she also states he, at one point, tried to hit her, and she is scared of him. Also that he "would touch her in ways she didn't want to be touched just to get his way". These are accusations of abuse and assault, but in those same quizzes and posts, she would later retract those statements, saying he never did anything to hurt her. She also admitted these things were contradictory, and that it didn't make sense, but she still accused him of assault, only to then say it didn't happen.

At that point, they were over. She continued to post about him though, both claiming he was an amazing boyfriend, but also abusive, that he hit her, that he never put his hands on her and more. Emily wrote a blog stating that she would stop talking about him, because everyone now thinks he's a bad person because of her, and she feels bad about it.

Oddly enough, Emily would have been posting to the Emily Luera deviant art account while dating Anthony and using heroin. Some of her comments are still available, like this one, which is about using heroin.

The previous blogs also have statements of Emily using gay slurs, saying she is quote, very racist, and Emily stating that she, at age 15, has never used drugs. Emily states boldly in her video that has been addicted to drugs since she was 14. However her own social media from the ages of 13-20 say otherwise. It's unlikely that it was because she felt like it was oversharing, embarrassing or shameful, given the nature of what she spoke about in the posts, like wanting to have sex with her teacher and more.

Also, on these blogs, Emily states she has severe memory issues that result in her getting so disoriented she throws up. I have no idea if this is related to her OCD, her traumatic brain injury, or any of the mental disorders she stated she has on her other socials.

Emily continued this trend over on Facebook and other social medias, where she, at multiple intervals, also accused other exes and crushes of being abusive to her. She has a word press blog with one post, accusing her high school boyfriend of doing nothing but yell at her and stating they are neglectful.

From a dam to a damn.

I've known you since my freshman year, though I've KNOWN you since last June. Minigolf. Movies. Dicking around at local parks. Being best friends and growing the time time of our lives like a kids toy that gets larger in water.

That was us alright. I called you Hubert you called me Emily and it was always one way or another with us. Can't do this, we'll go there. Can't go there, we'll just wait.

It was a fun time, a good time. One day we hike. We hike for hours on end until I am thirsty and a bit shaky. You are worried and I don't want you to be, but you make me sit. A fat guy falls down in front of his family and we laugh.

Okay, I'm fine now, let's go.

We go and hurdle into something neither of us had really forseen.

On top of the dam, crossing back to the car it's quiet. You reach out and take my left hand.

It's finally the safest it's ever been. All 50 yards back.

Jump ahead to now:

You're always yelling.

I'm always telling our stories.

And you don't know if you love me anymore.

I'm a bitch, you're lost and we need something to change us.

Be it ourselves or an event. As a one act of a friend has displayed- It can only take a moment to rekindled something long turned to ash.

I said this twice in all 5 months of being with you. And you remembered it word by word. All last night your actions said. "It's not the magnitude of one's love, it's that it's there and living." I believe you cannot read what you feel sometimes.

You can't trust me enough.

You have every right not to.

I always think you're lying to me.

I have little right to. But it happens.

Thursday come faster.

thinks she's the best god damn thing that could happen to him and he's blinded by grandiose ideas of someone else. I let the plaster walls saturate and fall and now all I'm left with is the ground I started with.

These are just some of the posts that she has made continuing this behavior.

She has multiple videos accusing her exes of abuse, like her I dated a Sociopath video, where she states she was in an abusive relationship in 2015 to 2016 with a person who was abusing drugs, who cheated on his girlfriend with Emily, who was a terrible person. Then there is her he cheated on me video, where she states a mutual friend cheated on her with a blonde, asian woman who liked to party, who was quote, such a crazy bitch she sent her a cease and desist to make sure Emily didn't talk to him anymore. Then there is her video talking about her boyfriend's crazy ex girlfriend who allegedly faked a rape accusation and would tell that boyfriend she was going to kill herself if he didn't pay attention to her. Then there is her video talking about how her ex girlfriend was totally crazy and came through her window one night drunk, wanting to have sex. Then there are her false allegations against BOB, stating he forced her into cam work and made her homeless, despite letting him around her kids and using his amazon account to this day. And then there is her provably false claims of rape against Anthony, her claims against Bryce and her false claims of stalking against me.

Part 15 more random lies

I also found evidence of Emily claiming that she is being stalked and harassed by certain accounts, only for those accounts to be shown to belong to her. This account on 9gag went by the name snackpacky, using Emily's image, her stated profession and would comment on posts saying women weren't as attractive as she was, that anyone who was overweight was just lazy and should stop eating, and that most men are intimidated by her because she is attractive and smart. She also apparently had a sex addiction, and her boyfriend at the time wasn't satisfying her.

I'm thinking op is probably fat. I have big boobs but I'm petite and there's no way I'd have stretched out any of my exbfs shirts, even the smaller guys' shirts. I couldn't imagine a normal sized girl doing it either, even with big boobs. Powers of deduction = yup. Fats.

@snackypacky but I also have a sex addiction and have been told by my counselor I need someone with moderate to low sex drive in order not to feed my habit. But I need to feed. Unfortunately, I just have to repress the beast inside. But I'll happily do it, cuz I love my man.

I ignored this account for the most part, because on a separate account that I already confirmed as belonging to Emily, Emily stated this account was not her and was in fact, a stalker.

However, upon looking into the account, it's clearly her.

On this account, she talks about her favorite anime, One Piece, and her favorite character from the anime who she made a self insert comic for. She talks about her sobriety from heroin specifically, her being a makeup artist, and her being a professional model. These are statements that Emily has made on her other accounts, and lies she continues to state in her day to day life. Here are 1 v 1 comparison of things stated on this "fake" account, and things she has stated.

Letting you all know, as a professional make-up artist, I can tell she's contoured her breasts and that they are not that size. Sorry, guys :(Take it from a girl with natural larger breasts. She'd fill out the whole bra if they were to actually look like that.

Anyone ever notice how Jenna Marble's "Trick people into think your good looking" video is how she always looks? I am so glad I'm naturally gorgeous and that I don't need make up to watch boys trip over themselves to get my number 😊 @lejkama I'm objectively considered very attractive and i second this. I find people (especially other women) are incredibly rude to me before I even get a chance to speak. Usually I am extremely nice in order to overcompensate for people's assumptions about me.

According to Emily, this person was pretending to be her, but being mean to others in order to troll her. However, why would this person go through the effort of pretending to like One Piece, specifically a random side character she had made a fan comic for, pretend to be a makeup art, lingerie model and more, and post the exact same kind of comments that she was posting on her confirmed accounts? It is much more likely that this was just Emily, who didn't want to be called out for posting these messages.

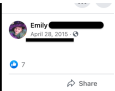

Emily stated her hair was split dyed black and orange for the majority of 2015, and that when I split dyed my hair in 2020, it was a direct reference to her.

She however, had never dyed her hair orange. In 2015, she bleached half of her hair, trying to go from black to blonde. Her hair ended up turning a brassy orange, because she didn't use toner, as seen in these pictures.

Her hair stayed this way for one month before dying it blue.

She never purposely dyed it orange, she lied about how long her hair stayed this way, and she did so in order to malicious paint me as a stalker.

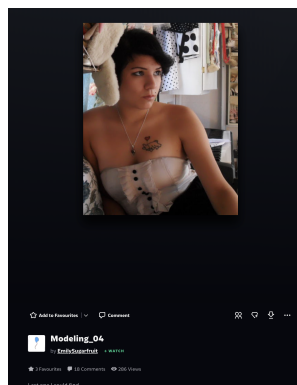

Emily stated all my art is her, and has coded messages meant for her. This is patently false.

The first drawing is not of her, and looks nothing like her. Looking at the image, the drawing has pale skin, freckles, bangs and brown eyebrows. Emily has none of those features, and is an olive skin latina woman. These two pictures look nothing a like.

The second picture is of my old friend, who is Sri Lankan. This is a drawing of a dark skinned sri lankan woman, and looks nothing like Emily. It's also ridiculous because in her 1v1 comparison, she uses a screenshot from her video on me. Which happened in 2021. This drawing is from over 4 or 5 years ago, possibly longer. Meaning she is stating that this drawing of a dark skinned Sri Lankan woman is her, and I somehow knew how she would look in the future.

The third one is literally a commission from someone who has darker skin, and again, looks nothing like Emily. The mediocre at the top was not a diss on Emily, it was part of the commission.

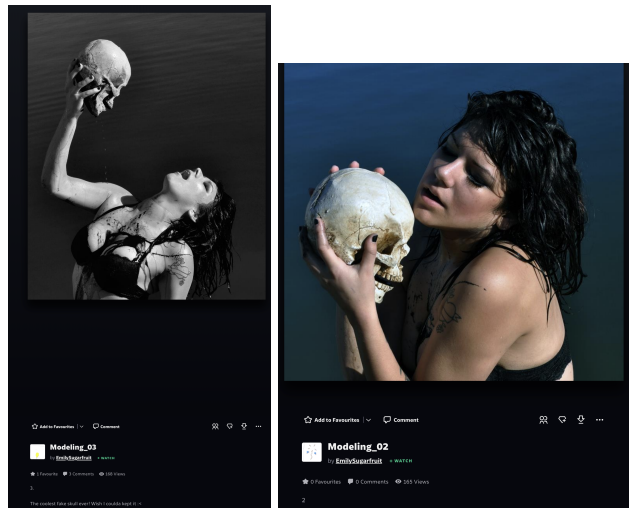

Emily also stated she was a signed, working model, who did this full time. This, like her stating she was a makeup artist, is also a lie. Emily has had professional photos taken of her for her music and what not, however, she was never a signed model, like she says on deviant art and in a blog post for the awkward years project (<https://www.deviantart.com/emilysugarfruit/art/Modeling-04-360752639> , <https://archive.ph/FgYPD>) this photo was clearly taken by herself in her room as seen by the fact she is sitting on a bed.

<https://www.deviantart.com/emilysugarfruit/art/Modeling-02-360752399> , <https://archive.is/v9ZkE>

these two photos were taken for her music

<https://www.deviantart.com/emilysugarfruit/art/Modeling-01-360752183> , <https://archive.ph/R5D2j>

She clearly states here this is for her music

Now: 22 years old, Model, residing in Bay Area, California

As for my personal (I guess you'd call it a "success") story, when I was around 17/18, I got off a medication that I had taken since before puberty. Turns out, my natural frame is pretty small. I lost 65 lbs incredibly quickly (but kept my big boobies yes!), grew out my hair, started coming into a toned-down version of my own style and bam! All of a sudden I became attractive. By this time I was out of high school and no one really got to see my progress, but I didn't care. I felt beautiful on the outside and took my newfound confidence everywhere. From that, I started doing modeling part time and it eventually became a full time gig. I turn heads and get hit on everywhere I go and I STILL think people are just trying to make fun of me!

Trust me, when you get out of your awkward phase, you will not be used to people hitting on you for a looonng time. Just take it in stride, you'll get used to it.

I went from being 5'1, 155 lbs with a D cup that looked like an A cup stacked up against my bloated stomach, a bowl haircut, severe acne, and fuzzy eyebrows to 5'2 100 lbs with a D cup that actually looks like a D cup, long flowing hair and a face that probably never needs makeup again.

And who knows, I'm sure to someone somewhere I might look ugly, but I feel fantastic and all I can say to them is, "People pay me because I'm beautiful to look at but people stay with me because they know even after the beauty fades, my heart will stay beautiful."

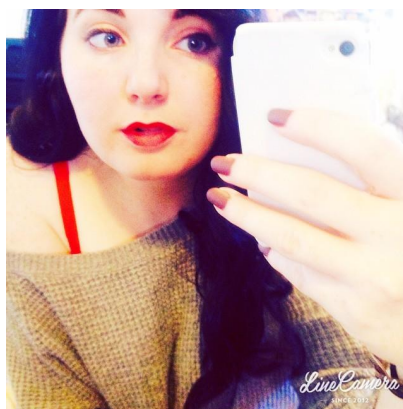

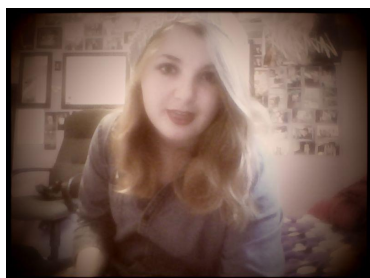

And to all who inquire (because I know someone will), no, I never have had any work done on anything, at all.

Emily states she is a signed model here working full time, in 2015, when she would have been working at a beauty supply shop. There is no proof that she has ever modeled for anything besides her own music, and no profiles exist for her on the site modelmayhem.

Emily states Anthony only dated me or was attracted to me because I am "goth" like she is. That is untrue. Partially because when they dated, she looked like this, and wasn't at all goth.

This is what I looked like when Anthony and I started dating years later. I only started dying my hair black after Anthony and I broke up, when I decided I wanted to look like Zooey Deschanel. I am a pale woman with freckles and blue eyes. She is a white passing latina woman with olive skin, dark hair and dark eyes. We look nothing alike. Our style isn't at all similar, and I hardly show myself online, so her saying we look alike is a farce.

Emily has also interacted with plenty of people I knew in a friendly setting, further solidifying what I said about how our social circles are not solely connected by Anthony. Here is Emily leaving a comment on a deviant art profile in 2010 of a family friend, before I knew Anthony. This is a person who I went to school for multiple years with and was a family friend.

She stated that she doesn't respond to dms anymore because she is quote "so scared of the harassment", has ptsd, and has been terrified since 2016. However, in her Answering your Questions video from 2018, Emily states that she spends a good amount of time interacting with her fans in the dms, and usually only talks to them in her dms. (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rXSKdO6wB6E>) This video postdates anytime Emily cited she was harassed, making her statement of her closing her DM's because of Anthony or myself false.

Emily then says a storytime video I made has proof I stalked her. That video is about how someone stole my design and got it tattooed on them. In the story time I make a joke about how I am quote, a great stalker, because I can find anything on anyone. The video also was taken down March 19, 2021, months before Emily's video. I know that because I made a video addressing it, talking about how I took the video down because I no longer agreed with what I said in it, because I had grown and matured and now see it as cringey.

When Dad told me about Paige this morning, my mind did go to you-wondering how you're doing with that loss. It's incredible to lose loved ones, especially so young in life and I'm so sorry for this pain. I appreciate you reaching out and understand this is not a portal for a relationship again, understanding this pain I've inflicted. I am overwhelmed with regret over the way I handled our relationship back in our more recent years, especially the biphobia, the pushing of a non consensual relationship, the claims of abuse, and the indirect communication. I was wrong in all of it--projecting so much of my own ish onto you and I had no understanding of the impact it had on you. I'm humbled again and again by the impact my life has had in yours, both of consequence of my own actions but also of just my existence. For the pain I've caused you that you've voiced and for perhaps myriads of other things that are not said, I am deeply, deeply sorry.

First, my sibling. Jem Campbell.

The person who in their freshman year of Gonzaga University, shit in a mug, walked across campus and smeared said shit on the door of her girlfriend's friend's dorm because they didn't seem to like her. The person who was hired by disabled activist Evan Sweeny, got fired for unprofessional behavior, then got so mad that they hacked their account to read what Evan thought about them and deleted their work in revenge. The person who purposely broke our parents laptop by pouring water on it because they gave them a curfew when they moved back home from college.

We haven't been close since 2014, when I picked them up from a party, and they drunkenly told me I was supposed to be the fuck up of the family, that they wished I had killed myself in 7th grade and they want nothing to do with me. The next morning they didn't remember it, and said they didn't mean it. But after that, everything was different.

They surfaced the moment my name was trending to not only state that I had stalked Emily and they had witnessed it, but also to state that I had stalked and abused them as well. That I spent years following their online presence and sending harassment towards them, that I have abused them for years and years. And much like Emily, they had no evidence. Because that quite sincerely didn't happen. They admitted in 2018 this never happened, and was projection on their part, but they saw their chance and took it.

Jem would accuse me of stalking them for simply following their tumblr, instagram or any public platform, and reading their posts. Mind you, we mutually followed each other on pretty much every platform, she was aware I was following her and I never used a false account to see her posts. I never sent them anything less than support, and they were always aware that I followed them.

However, if they posted something that they, for whatever reason, didn't want me to see, it was my fault if it came up on my dashboard. When they came out via tumblr as a lesbian, and I liked the post, they got mad at me because I took their moment away, and they wanted to tell me in person. When I commented on a post they wrote about me, talking about how they hate me, I was invading their space and privacy. Despite them talking about me publicly, I wasn't allowed to know.

In 2016, after my sister posted that my nephew was better off without his father, I wrote them a long message essentially telling them I was done with them. That they had gone too far, and what they said was disgusting. This is the message I sent to them. Pause to read if you want.

I am done with you.
Where the fuck do you get off? Literally bashing our parent's because you feel they didn't do enough to make you feel good enough? Are you kidding me? You're going to rant about this online like you have anything to stand on?
You can't bull shit me, you fucking liar! Oh! You starved yourself and our parents didn't notice? OH FUCKING GREAT. Me too. To the point where I can't have kids, in fact. Because let's break down our shitty little expression points, shall we? But guess who doesn't blame our parents for that? Me. Because I chose to starve myself because I wasn't happy. I thought being thin would make me happy, and if our parents had known that, they would have stopped it.
OH WAIT, THERE'S MORE. I also attempted suicide twice while under their roof, because I was upset at the bullying that was happening at school AND AT HOME, but our parent's didn't know. Huh, I wonder why. I think it was because Mom was dealing with her MS, working at Campbell Precision, helping her Dad with Alzheimers, working at SFC and trying to make sure we were okay, and because Dad was working about 3 different jobs to keep our family afloat. I don't blame them for that. They were doing their best.
If our Mom and Dad hadn't been working fucking tirelessly in order to fund you and me going to Catholic School and trying to give us the best chance at life, then I would think they were neglectful. But they were doing their best. You fucking idiot. Not everything is about you. You and you're shitty way of being.
HOW FUCKING DARE YOU TALK ABOUT JASON AND BOBBY LIKE THAT. I get it, I do, I felt like I was second fiddle to both of them AND YOU for a very long time, but you don't get to fucking disrespect them like that. They were people and not just Dad's attempt at having kids. We are not replacements and they don't see us as that.
That's your fucking self esteem talking, or lack there of. You say "Oh we're just your second attempts at having kids," because you see yourself as nothing to them. They treated you like a golden fucking goose your whole life, and you have the audacity to say they didn't? Well, not to me you don't. I WAS THERE. Fuck you. Fuck you. I can't believe you would fucking belittle them like that to the world. I am so fucking sick of this shit that you do. You realize you do this to yourself. That the problem isn't the whole fucking world. That it's you. You're a fucking repressed little shit lord who ruins everything. "do you love the daughter who "joked" about therapy all her life who is hungry for it with every passing day?"
YOU CHOSE TO STOP GOING TO THERAPY BECAUSE YOU HAD A FUCKING CRUSH ON STEPHANIE. YOU ALSO THREW AWAY ALL YOUR MEDICINE BECAUSE YOU HAD A CRUSH ON THIS GIRL. MOM AND DAD DIDN'T DO THAT. YOU DID. DON'T SAY YOU'RE HUNGRY FOR THERAPY WHEN THEY PAID FOR IT FOR YOU, AND THEN YOU FUCKED RIGHT OFF OF IT. You giant fucking liar. I am hungry for therapy, "goes to therapy once". I am not going anymore. THAT'S LITERALLY WHAT YOU DID BEFORE YOU MOVED TO BOLDER CREEK.
ALSO DON'T TALK ABOUT HEALTH CARE WHEN YOU FUCKING RAN UP OUR MOMS MEDICAL BILLS BECAUSE YOU DECIDED YOU WERE HAVING A HEART ATTACK ON THANKSGIVING WHEN IT WAS ACID REFLUX. AND THEN WHEN YOU SAID I INVALIDATED YOUR PAIN BECAUSE IT WASN'T ACID REFLUX. WHO DO YOU THINK HAD TO PAY THAT BILL OFF, YOU IDIOT.
Goddamn, you don't even realize what you're saying is ridiculous. Our parent's love you. Ever since you have come out, they have loved and accepted it. Even when you gave them that passive aggressive ass book about how to raise gay children WHEN YOU WERE AN ADULT. Dad read that and tried to use those methods, by the way. But probably because he hates you.
WHEN DID OUR PARENTS CUT YOU OFF FINANCIALLY? WHEN DID THAT HAPPEN? Because it looks like you're only now being cut off, but that's for legal reasons. Believe me, Mom would be more than willing to keep you on her medical insurance because she LOVES YOU AND WANTS TO TAKE CARE OF YOU. You fucking moron.
I'm sorry you don't feel loved enough. That you, like a child, need someone to fucking tell you good job every time you do something. What happened that made you need that? What happened that made you so reliant on being edgy and cool that you fucking needed to lie about our family online? What happened? Cause I was there. I was there the whole time and if you have an actual explanation for me, that would be shocking.
I'm done.
You have officially lost another sibling. Not because you're queer, not because your edgy and alternative, and not because of your political beliefs. But because I refuse to be an enabler to your need to be the number one victim and to make our family seem like the worst place ever.
Congratulations, you fucked yourself out of having a sister.

And in 2018, I reached out to them, telling them exactly how I felt about the things they had said and done. Things like saying I abused them publicly, posting that my husband is abusive on twitter for simply breaking up with me for a day, sexually harassing my straight female friends to date me until they feel too uncomfortable to be in the same room as me, and saying things like they wished I was dead.

died, and you know how much she meant to me. I never told her how much she meant to me, and this whole experience has me wanting to be more open and honest with people. So this is me doing that. I am not trying to reach out and kiki with you, because a lot has happened. But I want to be honest.

Your internet presence growing up was by far the most hurtful and disrespectful thing I have ever encountered, because I truly loved and cared about you. You were my best friend, someone who I thought I would hold on to forever, and you disregarded that love and trust I put in you just to put things on a blog.

You fostered a loving, open friendship by day, and then would cut me with your words at night. You would tell me you appreciated my talents and abilities, but then you would say how I, and later on my partner were terrible people. You would say you were fully appreciative of my sexuality and how that it is different for everyone, and then would post about how disappointed you were that I wasn't dating a girl. You would also post about you wanting me to date my STRAIGHT best friend, which was inappropriate and made Natalie incredibly uncomfortable. And you'd post that to the public. It wasn't and isn't a diary. It's in the world. And it would destroy me.

I spent time trying to make myself into what you wanted. Cutting my tongue to not upset you or have real outstanding conversations about things because god forbid I say the wrong things. But as I grew into a more mature person, as age does, I realized that fear wasn't helpful. And I started questioning things.

It wasn't until you posted a thread about how my relationship was abusive on twitter that I realized just how much I couldn't trust you. Please don't pretend those posts were not about me, because you posted them the day we got back together, and friends of yours reached out, to me, to make sure I was okay.

Not only were the claims baseless and you decided that my boyfriends abuse related PTSD wasn't real, but you took the opportunity to make it a statement about what a good and loving person you are. There is nothing as back handed as your final post, saying that you will be here for me when I am ready. It wasn't about you thinking or feeling I was abused, it was you trying to make yourself look like a saint. And it drove me so far away from you.

I take fully responsibility for all my actions. The shit I said and did and everything I did that hurt you, that is on me, and I fully apologize. I can be spiteful, and I'm working on that, trying to be a more thoughtful person. I have apologized and I will continue to apologize for those things. In all of our arguments, I have always tried to apologize after, and I will continue to do so.

I still cared about you, to the point where I was trying to make things work and still be apart of your life, even when I knew there was a potential for you to misinterpret my words and then post about how much of an terrible person I am. You even noticed I had pulled away from you, especially from the time I called you a cunt and you said that you wouldn't be my friend if you weren't my sister.

That comment hurt me more than I can put into words. I had given up a job, promotion, and my relationship to be with you in LA and for you to tell me that that didn't matter. That none of our relationship mattered, that fucking destroyed me. No matter what I was going to do in our lives, you would always be willing to cut me out in a heartbeat. And when I realized that, I had to do the same thing. I wasn't going to care about you as much. I was going to leave you alone. Because you wouldn't be friends with me unless you were somehow forced to. So why burden you.

Again, I understand you said that as a reaction. But it was a well thought out response, a day later, after I had apologized and then confronted you about making a blog post where my name was literally in the tags. You had said, "I'd rather be alone than be with someone who hurts me". I asked you why you posted it after we had made up, and you said that. And then when asked to apologize, you're response was I meant it at the time, so no.

I remember you asking why we weren't as close as we used to be and that you missed our friendship. And I just sat there and tried to explain that when you choose to post publicly about how I am a bad person and then come back into the room and say all is forgiven, it makes me not trust you. I also reminded you that you said you wouldn't be friends with me. You seemed legitimately shocked that I would remember that, but when you say something that hurts someone else, it sticks. I guess in your mind, you NOT remembering it would be what you consider erasure, though it didn't hurt you. So why would you remember the impact.

I asked you to be open with what you thought about me to just me, and you wouldn't say what you would post in your blog.

You would never say those things to me. I'd say something you'd disagree with or find problematic, and you would just say nothing or get quiet. If I pushed for your opinion, still, you were silent. You never told me when you had a problem, and I don't know why. I would be ready to discuss things with you, but when our outlooks didn't align, you didn't seem to want to talk further.

Your post about our family pushed me over the edge. You no longer know any of the people in our family, purposely so, and you chose to make a statement that all of us are these immoral beings. You had no idea who I voted for or why, you had no idea I was living in my car, and yet you took the space to judge me for actions you had no idea I had taken or not.

That entire post was way too much for me. I hadn't been sleeping, because of the riots in Portland and living out of my car. I was no longer safe where I was and I was struggling, a lot, just to keep moving forward and living. And here was someone I was supposed to trust, who would say they wanted a friendship with me, and who was supposed to love me telling me how terrible I was for feeling unsafe.

I wrote you exactly what I felt. You had stepped over the line, purposely so or not, and I was tired, so I leaped over that line as well. Tired of putting faith in you to give me any sort of respect. Tired of you writing me into a corner. Tired of either being the loving strong sister who you wanted to be close to, or the evil psychopath who you would leave in a heartbeat, depending on what day it was. Because you would shape me that way on your blog. I wasn't a person, I was a character with no base.

I was done then, until Dad's heart attack. He almost passed away, and I was terrified. I called them every day, and all I kept hearing from our strong beautiful parents was how much they wanted to talk to you. About how they had emailed you and sent you messages but they couldn't reach you. The day of Dad's surgery, before he went in, he was telling me that if I talked to you and his surgery didn't go well, to make sure you knew he loved you.

I was so fucking devastated. Because that man loves you so much, despite what you think. Despite any form of insult you have taken from him. And if you could talk to him now you would see that. He has changed so much since we have left the house, and you closed yourself off to that, instead choosing to brand him as a monster because it fits your narrative.

I still have a very hard time talking to you. Right now I want to get mad and be mean, but that's pointless. I know if you read this and find it to be spiteful, you will take absolutely none of it to heart. Everything I wrote in here is not meant to attack you, but to tell you how I honestly feel. I cannot trust you. I do not trust you. Your actions have precipitated that, and you have every right to run your blog and socials in any way you see fit. So when you use it to hurt your family, you friends, and your deceased brother, those actions affect them.

I hope you continue to grow and learn, and I hope you don't read this as an attack.

When Dad told me about Paige this morning, my mind did go to you-wondering how you're doing with that loss. It's incredible to lose loved ones, especially so young in life and I'm so sorry for this pain. I appreciate you reaching out and understand this is not a portal for a relationship again, understanding ths pain I've inflicted. I am overwhelmed with regret over the way I handled our relationship back in our more recent years, especially the biphobia, the pushing of a non consensual relationship, the claims of abuse, and the indirect communication. I was wrong in all of it--projecting so much of my own ish onto you and I had no understanding of the impact it had on you. I'm humbled again and again by the impact my life has had in yours, both of consequence of my own actions but also of just my existence. For the pain I've caused you that you've voiced and for perhaps myriads of other things that are not said, I am deeply, deeply sorry.

In 2019, my sister and I started talking a little bit more. I reached out to them when they were asking for help with rent, and I thought we were on a better path. However, after months of generally friendly conversation, they blocked me, and posted on twitter that I was a toxic, abusive person. Here are the last messages we sent to each other.

And then this happened. And suddenly they're stating I am the most abusive person in their life. Again. Don't worry, they didn't just do it publicly, they also sent me death threats, made fun of the fact that I can't have children, and talked about how much better my nephew would be without me, so I should kill myself. They sent me these emails from a spam account, however, when they spoke about the protests in portland in 2016, i knew it was Jem. They had word for word said this to me before

So you know what you can do? Kill yourself. Full stop. Don't fucking go lick Gabbie Hanna's asshole to get your fucking clout back. We all know you never gave a shit about art, you only did this to stalk someone who didn't fucking deserve it. Well you know what? You deserve this. You deserve to ACTUALLY have gore spammed to you. You deserve to ACTUALLY miscarry. You deserve to ACTUALLY be raped. You're nothing more than a stain on this already disgusting fucking planet. Those rioters set the wrong fucking car on fire, hell, they should have been more fucking violent. They should have curb sandwiched you and Anthony.

Some people on Reddit have speculated that you lied to Emily by claiming to have miscarried because you're a psychotic bitch who physically can't feel human emotion, so I'm going at this the gammon-outside-the-clinic route and show you some medical waste for a shock reaction. Just remember, you deserve infertility if you aren't lying about it, and if you have ever miscarried, you deserve the bloodiest, most agonizing, traumatic miscarriage possible.

Just remember. This will all end if you give in and kill yourself. It's been coming a long time, and your time is up.

I am done with you. I am done paying your medical bills, I am done helping you every fucking time you reach out begging for support. I am done being a shoulder for you to cry on when you get evicted, or something goes wrong, because you immediately go on twitter and brag about how stupid I am for trusting you. I am fucking stupid, but I love myself enough now to know that you don't deserve shit from me.

Kevin Adam Coulter

Shannon Cld

Yeah.. I just am really starting to get pissed with my friend Kevin. The other day we were supposed to hang out and what not and he went and blew me off cause he was in pain. So I was like cool that's fine, then his girlfriend calls me and asks me to give her a ride to his house because he needed to be cheered up. So I picked her up even though she lives halfway to santa cruz, and I drove us to his house which is past West Valley and literally was ignored for hours, and then he got irritated at me because I fell asleep, then he threw shit at me in my sleep. And I just really don't appreciate it.

The second person who came against me is Kevin Adam Coulter, who is someone I was friends with years ago. He goes by the moniker Coultergeist on social media, and you might know him as the guy who said talking to me was too triggering, and then immediately went to making memes out of my cancellation.

Kevin... is a person who I tried to contact last year for some closure. He manipulated me, he assaulted me, and he went out of his way to convince me that people in my life hated me. He tried to break up two relationships I was in, and he knew how to manipulate me like no one else. He would call me, telling me he was depressed, begging me to come over, and then when I got there, call me and tell me he left to hang out with other people. When we smoked hookah, he would ash the coal off on me, because he said I made a funny noise when I got burned. And when my brother died, he told me I was too sad to hang out with him.

Kevin, like everyone else, just said a bunch of things. With no evidence. It also doesn't make sense for him to have witnessed anything, given that we weren't even friends when the majority of the harassment took place, according to Emily. I don't know if Kevin himself actually did anything to Emily, but I know he did to his ex girlfriends. Kevin would hack his girlfriend's facebook pages in order to see who they were talking to, he'd go on their youtube pages to see what they were posting, and he would generally fuck with everything on their pages. He did this to me a couple times, sending people messages from my account just to fuck with my friendships, and he blocked people on my account who he didn't want me to talk to. Here is him doing it to me on his other friends account.

hey shannon it's kevin

This is why every person in my life hated him, and was stoked for me not to be friends with him.

That's why when Kevin said in his last message to me that he got pretty cyber stalky before, I didn't have a huge reaction. Because he had. With his exes. And I thought it meant he changed. But alas.

Shannon Cld

well...I duhno I trust some people too easily and even though that isn't a fault, I just don't... want to experience another kevin situation.

Final Statement

I am done. The video is over. I am not coming back to youtube. I have learned that the only people I can count on in my life are the people who actually know me, and that if a random person says I stalked them with no evidence, people I genuinely admired would just go with it.

Two people who I barely know anymore, who literally have years of statements saying they hate me, came and cosigned this bullshit, meanwhile literally no one in my life, not one friend that I am actually close to came forward. And no one presented any evidence that holds up to even a little bit of speculation. Which is why every lawyer, police officer and pi Emily took this too immediately said she didn't have a case. Meanwhile every lawyer I went to said I did, and was eager to pursue this.

Tipster said that if I was able to prove that I didn't actually stalk Emily, that he would apologize to me. And to that I say fuck you, you absolutely disgusting person. You maliciously attacked my husband because you couldn't scroll down on Emily's instagram and find the multiple posts that debunk her story. There is a reason your content stays getting fewer views than everyone else in the youtube commentary community, and that's because it's terrible, lazy, and reductive. You should rename your channel second hand news, since you can't be fucked to actually research anything before opening your ugly mouth. You aren't a reporter, you are a joke. Just know that you are a terrible person, truly,, and you are just as bad as Emily, if not worse for supporting a mob with no evidence while stating to be a journalist.

To the people who reached out and said I don't care if you did it, I still love your content, you're fucking weird. That's not comforting. To the people who told me to kill myself, you almost got what you wanted. To everyone else, go touch some fucking grass.
